VOL. XXI.....NO. 6512. NEW-YORK, FRIDAY, AUGUST 2, 1872. PRICE FOUR CENTS.

NORTH CAROLINA TRUE.

The State Republican by Probably from 5,000 to 8,000.

False Returns from Democratic Sources Exposed.

Three Republican Members of Congress Certainly Elected.

Effect of the Tammany Knaveries in the East.

A Quiet Election in Every Part of the State.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

RALEIGH, Aug. 1—Midnight.—All the news thus far received has been from Democratic sources, and being made up on peculiar principles, show Democratic gains everywhere. For instance, the Democrats from their dispatches claim 200 gain in Craven County, but my special shows the vote of that county to give the Republicans 1,600 majority, being about the same as last year, and 400 Republican gain over 1870. These Democratic returns, however, show gains as follows:

REPUBLICAN GAINS.

Charlotte	75
Greensboro	140
Salisbury	176
Wilson County	43
Davidson County	100

DEMOCRATIC GAIN.

Halifax	100
Johnson County	80
Gaston	120
Mecklenburg County	300
Franklin	111
Davidson	8

There are several others of these mythical gains, the value of which can be seen when it is known that the Democrats claim 300 gain in Raleigh and Wake County, when the fact is that the Republicans have at absolute gain over the Convention vote of 100, and a much larger gain over the vote of 1870. No vote has been reported except in very few cases; but all these, especially in the west, where the most danger was anticipated, indicate Republican gains.

Judge Settle is surely elected in the Fifth District, Major Smith in the Fourth; and these, with Judge Thomas' majority in the Second, will give the State to the Republicans.

All the Democratic returns claim gains in the eastern counties, where Blumenburg has worked, and, if the State is lost, it will be owing to the most vile rascality ever practiced in politics.

The Republicans claim the State, however, by 5,000 to 8,000, against a claim of the Democrats of having 10,000 majority. Nothing will be known to-night, and all the Associated Press dispatches will be from Democratic sources, and absurdly foolish. My opinion, based upon the best information obtainable at this hour, is that the State has gone Republican. E. C.

The Very Latest—The State Probably Republican.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 2—2 A. M.—No county vote has been reported in full. The Democrats continue to report gains from everywhere, just as they always do, and they now claim the State by 5,000 to 10,000 majority. A few facts obtained indicate a decided Republican victory.

Hon. Samuel F. Phillips and other prominent Republicans say there is no doubt whatever that they have carried the State by a large majority, and have elected Cobb, Thomas, Smith and Settle to Congress. The Democrats concede all but Cobb, which would alone give the State to the Republicans.

The precise result will not be known for several days, and the approximate majority even cannot be ascertained for two or three days.

The Associated Press dispatches are simply silly, pretending to give Democratic gains in counties which cannot possibly be heard from until Saturday.

This fact is a sample of all the returns received here, except those giving the votes of each candidate, and these invariably show Republican gains. E. C.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Aug. 1.—The election was one of the most quiet that has been held in this city for years. Business was generally suspended. A large vote was polled, and the utmost exertions made by both sides. The city returns are not yet in.

Albemarle Township, Bladen County, was the first return received, and gives Merrimon a majority and gain of about forty votes over the vote of 1870, when the Conservatives carried the State by nearly 5,000 majority. The vote for Attorney-General in 1870 will be adopted as the basis of comparing the gains and losses in the present election.

Weldon, Halifax County, Merrimon gains 100 on the vote of 1870. This is considered a very favorable indication for the Conservatives. North-west Township, Brunswick County, gives Merrimon a gain of 36 votes on the vote of 1870. The Conservatives in this city are offering bets to any amount on Merrimon's election, with no takers. The Second Ward in this city gives Merrimon 108; Caldwell, 267, a Conservative gain of 159; Warsaw, Duplin County, gives Merrimon 256; Caldwell, 146, a small Conservative gain. Merrimon gains 200 in Raleigh.

Liberty gives a Conservative gain of 25; Rocky Mount, 81; Enfield, 38; two precincts in Edgecomb, 128; Wilson gives a gain, but the amount is not stated. Returns from Columbus County show a considerable Conservative gain. Macomlie gives 18 Conservative gains; Goldsboro gives 125 gain.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 1.—Returns from eleven towns and precincts give the Conservatives gains of about 400 over the Shipp vote of 1870. Raleigh Township gives a Conservative gain of 224. Wake Forrest gives Merrimon 100 gain. Hillsboro is yet doubtful, though the chances are in favor of the election of Merrimon.

Second Array of the Republic.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The delegates to the National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, together with Post Orne, of Seneca Falls, were the guests of Post Charles W. Crocker, No. 45, of Auburn, at the Cascade on Owasco Lake, today. The excursion party filled six cars to overflowing. The day was charming. After dinner, speeches were made by Gen. Barnum, Gen. Robinson, Hon. Christopher Morgan, J. R. Bernard and others.

TENNESSEE.

Republicans Victorious in the County Elections—Many of the Colored Voters to Summer's Letter.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 1.—Returns from the various counties of East Tennessee, received at the Centennial office, show decided Republican victories in county elections. Knox County, after a most exciting contest, elects Republican county officers with one exception, and majorities range from 100 to 1,000; a very large gain. Sumner's letter was circulated in hand-bill form yesterday among the colored voters. Their answer as the ballot-box shows the most unified Republican vote cast by them for five years. The Green column stands firm in East Tennessee.

Municipal Elections in Memphis and the County.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 1.—The election today passed off quietly, owing to the extra precautions taken to prevent trouble. It is believed the entire Democratic county ticket is elected, though by a greatly-reduced majority.

THE GERMANS OF TROY.

Efforts to Create Greeley Sentiments Among them a Failure—A Meeting Results in Unanimous Support of Grant.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

TROY, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Prof. Raeman and Dr. Breslau having devoted several weeks in working up Greeley enthusiasm among the Germans of Troy, issued posters this afternoon calling for a meeting at 8 P. M. At the appointed hour 100 German citizens were present. The two originators knowing that none of their crowd were in attendance, left, and a meeting was organized, with Charles Schlachett as Chairman, and Mr. Ottenhomer, editor of the Volksfreund, Secretary. The Chairman asked the meeting whom they were in favor of, Grant or Greeley, and they voted unanimously for Grant. A strong Grant Club was organized at once.

NEW-JERSEY.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Aug. 1.—The Appomattox Guards of this city turned out in procession this evening, 200 strong, in uniforms. The demonstration was very enthusiastic, and met with the approval of all who witnessed them on their line of march. The Greeleyites will find no chance for much of a break in the Republican columns in this place. Of the 200, above seventy-five were colored citizens, who formed in the procession in minority uniform.

VERMONT.

A Democratic Amalgam Convention at Burlington—A Ticket Nominated.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 1.—The Democratic Delegate and Liberal Republican Mass State Conventions met here this morning. Nothing was done but organization and speech-making.

The two Conventions appointed Committees of Conference, who were not ready to report until 4 P. M., when the Conventions re-assembled, each in its own hall. The following is the list of nominations agreed on:

Congress—A. B. Gardner, of Bennington, Liberal.

Lieutenant-Governor—W. H. Bingham, of Stowe, Democrat.

Treasurer—Henry Chase, of Lyndon, Democrat.

Elector—W. H. Horrobin, of Bennington, Democrat; Thomas E. Powers, of Woodstock, Liberal; J. R. Bond, of Albany, Liberal; Jasper Rand, of St. Albans, Democrat; Saul Bishop, of Bolton, Democrat.

The Conventions then adjourned to the open air, where speeches were made for two hours by J. S. Johnson, of Oregon; Jas. S. Thayer and E. C. Perrin, of New-York; Gen. Kilpatrick announcing that he would speak in the evening.

GEORGIA.

The Violation of the Enforcement Act.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 1.—The case of the United States against George Washington Wilson and Thomas C. Wilson, charged with a violation of the Enforcement act in disturbing a peaceful assemblage and interrupting freedom of speech, was called in the United States Commissioner's Court today. The Court-room was densely packed, and great interest was felt in the proceedings. One of the defendants conducted his own defense, but both were assisted by Judge Fleming. District-Attorney Farrow in introducing the case stated that this was the first case of the kind that had come before the United States in Georgia. He regretted that the parties violating the law were of his own party (the Republican), but he would, nevertheless, prosecute vigorously. The defendants lead one faction of the Republican Party, which is bitterly opposed by the other faction, of which Bullock is leader. The case, as reserved until to-morrow, Mr. Farrow was emphatic in his remarks, regretting that the first violation of the right of the people to peacefully assemble and enjoy the freedom of speech had been violated by Republicans, who had broken up a Republican meeting by intimidation and violence; but whether the parties were white or black, Republican or Democrat, he would exert the full power of the law to bring them to punishment. It was authoritatively to make the statement that the Government had to prosecute for the first offense against this law members of the Republican Party.

THE TURF IN ENGLAND.

The Goodwood Races in England—Favorites the Winner of the Goodwood Cup.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—The most prominent event of the Goodwood races today was the run for the Goodwood Cup, two miles and a half, which was won by Favonius, the Derby victor. Albert Victor was second and Verdun third. Only five horses ran. Maidment, a celebrated jockey, rode Favonius. The betting just before the start was three to one against Favonius, five to four against Albert Victor, and ten to one against Verdun.

The following is a summary of the race:

The Goodwood Cup, value 300 sovereigns, added to a subscription of 20 sovereigns each, half forfeit; 18 twenty subscribers, the second horse to receive 100 sovereigns out of the stakes; three years old to carry 7 stone 7 pounds, four, 8 stone 12 pounds; five, six and aged, 9 stone; mares and geldings allowed 3 pounds; pure barbs, Turkish or Arabian horses allowed 10 pounds; horses foaled in America or the British colonies allowed 7 pounds; horses which have never won above the value of 50 sovereigns, or received 100 sovereigns, including their own stakes on account horse, in any country, shall be allowed weight in these proportions: Three years old, 4 pounds; four, 9 pounds; five, 13 pounds; six and upwards, 21 pounds; the winner of the Derby or Doncaster St. Leger, Ascot, Goodwood, or Doncaster Cups, within an interval of two years, to Goodwood Cup days, included, to carry 7 pounds; of two or more of the above stakes and prizes, 10 pounds extra; two miles and a half.

The Manager of the Fenian Bond Company Suspended for Stock Sales Misrepresented and Misdirected.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 1.—Further developments in regard to the mysterious disappearance of Berthold J. Reisner, one of the managers of the Fenian Bond company, with a considerable amount of money, lead to the belief that he has been robbed and murdered. It has been definitely ascertained that much the largest part of the funds received from the generals is satisfactorily accounted for, $1,000 being to Steiner's credit in one of the city banks. The detectives are endeavoring to work up the mystery.

IOWA.

The "Liberal" Convention at Des Moines—Speeches—a Small Number of Delegates Over a Large Surface—A Split with the Democrats.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 1.—The Iowa "Liberal" mass Convention met in charity today. Fifty-three counties were represented. After electing a temporary organization, and the appointment of the usual Committees, with a Committee to confer with a similar Committee of the Democratic Convention in regard to the selection of a full and complete State and electoral ticket, and the manner of the election, the Convention adjourned until 3 P. M. On reassembling E. A. Gilbert, of Dubuque, was chosen President, and one Vice-President was selected from each Congressional district. The Committee on Credentials were called on for a report, but asked for time, and while waiting for this report a general lovefeast took place. Speakers from different parts of the State were called on for reports of the progress of the Liberal movement in their localities. This was done to give the Committee on Credentials time enough to make their report large. Finally the Committee presented a report, and the Chairman began to read the roll of counties represented. Before many counties were not represented that a motion was made that the further reading of the report be dispensed with. A motion was then carried that the Committee read the names and number of delegates of each county represented. This was amended so that the Committee must read the number which each county was entitled to send. After a long discussion and various attempts of the Committee to report, Gen. Gen. Henry Warren arose and said such report would not do and moved a recommitment of the report of the Committee, in order that delegations be filled up, so as to make a respectable Convention and to show the full number of delegates to which the counties are entitled. The report was recommitted and never resurrected.

The Committee on resolutions presented the following, which were adopted:

We, the Liberal Republicans of Iowa in Convention assembled, as a concise enunciation of the principles upon which we desire to act in the present campaign, declare the corruption, tyrannies, abuses and usurpations of the present Administration of the General Government, hereby cordially reaffirm the Liberal Republican platform.

That we hereby tender our cooperation to all the elements of opposition to the corruptionists and lovers of the Philadelphia Convention, and those adhering to the same; and that we pledge our hearty support to the nominees of the Cincinnati Convention and of this Convention.

To the resolutions the Cincinnati platform was attached. Captain M. Tracy, of Keokuk, was then introduced, and made a short speech, but gave way for the following report from the Conference Committee:

For Electors at Large—H. B. Funke, Democrat, of Dubuque; Pitt Henry Warren, Liberal, of Des Moines County.

For Secretary of State—Dr. E. A. Gilbert, Liberal, of Dubuque.

For Treasurer—M. J. Bluth, Liberal, of Scott County.

For Auditor—J. P. Cassidy, Democrat, of Pottawattamie County.

For Attorney-General—A. G. Case, Democrat, of Floyd County.

For Register of the State Land Office—Jacob Rutter, Liberal, of Pope County.

The following resolutions were also reported:

That the selection of district electors be remitted to the respective Congressional districts.

That after the adoption of this report and the completion of the deliberations of the conventions, they meet and jointly ratify their action.

Both Conventions then adjourned to Court-square, and numbers of speeches were made and the contract sealed that now unites the Democracy and Liberals in one bond of common brotherhood. The leaders in the movement are said to be discouraged over the lack of enthusiasm and numbers in the Convention. Desperate efforts were made to get up a grand torchlight procession this evening, but only 120 persons appeared in the procession.

Cassius M. Clay made a two hour's speech tonight, and a number of other speakers tried to kindle up a little enthusiasm, but their efforts were fruitless, and the Convention was the weakest ever held in Iowa. The farce to day has made Republicanism in Iowa immeasurably stronger.

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis and Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1—8 P. M.—The area of lowest barometer is now central west Lake Erie, but the barometer is generally low southeastward of the lower lakes, and thence to Virginia and over the Middle and Eastern States with slight cloudiness; southerly winds and partly cloudy weather in the South Atlantic and Gulf States, with heavy rain on the Florida and Louisiana coasts; northerly and westerly winds in the region of the Northern lakes, extending south-eastward to the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys. The rivers have fallen slightly at St. Louis and Omaha, and more decidedly at Nashville and Cincinnati.

PROBABILITIES.

The low barometer on the lower lakes will move eastward with threatening weather and rain areas over the Middle States north of Virginia, and over New-England, by Friday morning, with southerly and easterly winds; clearing weather in the Gulf and South Atlantic States to-night, with southerly and westerly winds, continued northerly and westerly winds, veering on Friday to northerly and north-easterly over the upper lakes, in the Ohio Valley and the lower Mississippi and Lower Ohio Valleys, with clear weather and moderate temperature; clearing and cooler weather on the lower lakes on Friday morning, rapidly extending south-eastward.

The President at Utica.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 1.—The President is still the guest of Senator Conkling. Today President Grant and Senator Conkling visited Trenton Falls, going by private carriage. Mrs. Grant accompanied Mrs. Conkling and Lieut Grant rode with Horatio Seymour, Jr., nephew of Ex-Gov. Seymour. The people living in the vicinity of Trenton Falls gathered there in large numbers to shake hands with the President as the Falls, returning in the evening. Tonight an informal reception was given at the house of Senator Conkling, and at a late hour the President was serenaded by the Mendelssohn Club, assisted by the Old Band of Utica.

The Arkansas Troubles.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 1.—Parties from Pope County, this evening, report that armed bands of the militia are still at large, notwithstanding the Governor's command for them to disband. Everybody is now looking for the Governor to declare martial law, and many merchants are removing their goods and families from the county.

Resignation of Gov. Curtin.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—At a meeting tonight of the Democratic-Republican Club, an organization composed of the dissatisfied ones of both political parties, a committee was appointed on reception of Ex-Gov. Curtin, from Russia, on Aug. 14.

Connecticut Legislature.

NEW-HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 1.—The Legislature will adjourn to-morrow. Today it passed a bill taxing the premium notes of the mutual life insurance companies of the State one-half of 1 per cent; also, a severe License Liquor law. Bill to establish a State Police was killed. During the session the Usury Bill was repealed and a Compulsory Education bill introduced.

Work Resumed in Williamsport.

WILLIAMSPORT, Penn., Aug. 1.—This city has again resumed its former business appearance. A majority of the mills are now in operation. The striking strikers, Greevy, Hammond, Whitlow and Blake, have all secured bail and been set at liberty. Bail is also being furnished for other strikers who were in prison. A general order has been issued relieving from duty all the troops here, and they have left for their homes.

Summer's Letter.

In an article on Summer's letter to colored men, the Syracuse Journal holds that the writer, for once, at least, has been untrue to the colored men, however faithful to their interests he may have been in the past. He has been untrue to them in that he has attempted to deceive them into the belief that they do not endanger their rights and privileges in voting for Horace Greeley and Gratz Brown, the candidates of the Democratic Party, of which he never done a thing to secure their freedom, and the rights guaranteed to them by the Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution, and by the Civil Rights bill, the supplement thereto amendatory.

BARNARD'S TRIAL.

Barnard's Version of His Relations with Carvey.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 1.—It is said that the defense will call Andrew J. Garvey, with a view of showing the Ring transactions in which he was concerned, and the unreliable nature of his testimony. Garvey expresses himself perfectly willing to tell all he knows without reserve, and asserts that he has never done anything criminal. Barnard's explanation of Garvey's story in relation to the plastering is said to be that the latter pestered him for some time with applications to allow him to do some work, and that he gave Garvey the order to get rid of him, expecting to pay for it. He professes to consider himself indebted to Garvey therefor today. He denies saying that Tweed told him to have it done, and claims that at that time he was on ill terms with Tweed. It is further said that he claims that Garvey's object was to include as many as possible in the frauds of the Ring so that none dare "peach." If this be true it is an admission on Barnard's part that he was willing to be included in those frauds, and would not have peached had he not got into difficulty himself. The story is inconsistent and ridiculous, but not more so than some of the defenses already advanced. It is also understood that at least one witness will be produced to contradict Garvey's testimony where necessary.

D. P. BLAIR'S TESTIMONY.

Gen. Frank P. Blair being present this morning was called by the prosecution and testified that in 1868 he was a United States Commissioner, appointed to examine the affairs of the Union Pacific Railroad Company. He remembered the election for directors of that Company in 1869, when it was arrested by an injunction issued by Judge Barnard. He met Barnard at the Astor House just after the injunction was issued. Barnard gave a jocose description of his order, saying it had fallen like a bombshell upon them, as they were not prepared for it. He wound up his statement of what he had done by a declamation, in a more serious vein, that he meant to drive these parties out of the State as he had previously driven other persons of another corporation away. He said he had driven one out of a "d—d scoundrel" out and intended to drive another.

Mr. Beach's cross-examination was chiefly directed to show that Barnard's remarks were merely intended to amuse, and could not, therefore, be taken as an indication of the intention with which his orders were issued. But when the serious effect of the orders reform d. to is remembered, it will be seen to have been a sorry joke for the Company. Otherwise it would have been entirely pointless. Serious or jocose, it was an outrageous statement for a Judge on the Bench, and shows beyond dispute the feeling which inspired his action.

MORE OF BARNARD'S HOLE AND CORNER ORDERS.

Richard C. Beasmah, Clerk of Chambers, produces the minutes of the Court, showing that Barnard was not holding Chambers at the time of the issuance of certain orders in the Albany and Susquehanna suits. On cross-examination the witness said there was a law authorizing a Judge of the Supreme Court to hold Chambers elsewhere than at the Court-house. Of course the does not affect the proof already in of orders granted by the accused on Chambers papers at out-of-the-way places, and at late hours of the night, nor the proof that such orders were granted on the application of Fisk and others, with whom he had combined for improper purposes. Mr. Beach aggressively asked if the witness had not been guilty of the chicanery of backing on Judge Barnard, to which Mr. Beasmah willingly responded that Judge Barnard had often sat for other Judges, a fact which nobody will deny, nor that Barnard procured the change for the purpose shown in the proof. The position occupied by his witness, and his prejudiced in favor of the accused, is well known, and it will therefore be unnecessary to follow him through the devious and perilous ways by which he sought to sustain the character of his patron. The testimony was listened to throughout with a smile of derision, which rose to a laugh of scorn when he said substantially he had never heard Judge Barnard talk any remark Mr. Beach was pleased to be illiberal in its character, though he had heard other Judges make jocose remarks which made the lawyers laugh.

CLOSE OF THE CASE FOR THE PROSECUTION.

This closed the case for the prosecution and the defense being called on to proceed, Mr. Beach said they had after consultation concluded to omit any formal opening. He then called Freeman J. Pithian, who did not respond. John W. Van Valkenburg, Ex-Gov. E. D. Morgan and Walter L. Church, also failed to answer.

FIRST WITNESS FOR THE DEFENSE.

George Y. Thatcher, Deputy County Clerk of Albany, was examined and testified that he knew papers had been filed in the Albany and Susquehanna litigation of 1869, but had been unable to find them.

Mr. Parsons said the relevancy of this testimony is not at present apparent and therefore they should not cross-examine.

Mr. Beach then said that over twenty witnesses had been summoned to be present today, with positive instructions to be present today, but as only one had appeared, and they deemed it inadvisable to produce him at this time, he was reluctantly compelled to ask for an adjournment till to-morrow morning. He seemed really concerned at the apparent desertion of his witnesses, and asserts that he has never met a more strange, and, he adds, though it be he there was no disposition on the part of the prosecution to take advantage of his difficulty.

Not was the Court inclined to hold him as strictly accountable as under other circumstances it might have done. Day by day illustrative evidence of corruption and malfeasance has been piled up by the prosecution, and now it is a mountain. Perhaps a touch of sympathy for him who sits moody and despondent in the shadow that it casts moves the judicial breast. He says but a day, and he will bring those who will swear that his character is pure, and his judicial conduct worthy of the bench on which he sat. Yes, he shall have it, for truth will not die meanwhile, nor will justice forget her wrongs. Let him show that he is acting now in good faith, that he has subpoenaed his witnesses, and attachments shall issue to bring them here. He reads out of Sunday on the business of twenty witnesses. The question of adjournment is put to the Court and carried without a dissenting voice. The following are the persons subpoenaed by the defense: Wm. Fullerton, A. J. Vanderpool, N. T. Guscendorf, John H. Comer, A. L. Brown, A. Oakey Hall, Horace Russell, Peter J. Devlin, Jas. Hooker, Benj. Wrankle, John W. Franks, John E. Fellows, Wm. F. Howe, Hamilton W. Robinson, Richard Hoope, Wm. Seals, V. L. Stoddard, Wm. Buckley, John H. Strahl and Alexander Thayer.

LETTER OF N. P. BANKS.

He Declines to Speak in Support of the Republican Candidates and Favors the Election of Greeley and Brown.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—The rumors of the defection of Gen. Banks from the support of Grant and Wilson are confirmed by the following letter:

BOSTON, July 29, 1872.

MY DEAR SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge, by this note, an election to our convention today, the receipt of your invitation to address the citizens of Lynn on Thursday evening, in support of the re-election of Gen. Grant and the policy of his Administration. No invitation could have greater weight with me from any part of the country, and I assure my friends of my unfavorable opinion and of my great pleasure in accepting that nothing would be added to your responsibilities as a representative of the citizens of Lynn to induce me to accede to the request. This kindness to me and to your City is a lasting his remembrance, and I hope I may be permitted to express my sincere regret for my inconsistency with them. But I regret to say that I am not in accord with them in regard to the Presidential canvass. Against my wishes and my personal interests, in an emergency in which I felt it my duty, that the nomination of the Republican Party, of the Government in all its parts, to the advantage of the country, and that it will not hereafter be used for the mere purpose of party or to promote the interests of any class of citizens. No personal feeling of any form or character enters into this judgment; it is in view of general principles and public interests alone that I am led to this determination. The nation is at the mercy of the peoples of all parties, and all and race is in support of the mixed results of the war is contemplated in the performance of the duties required of the people, or in other words, by shall be at stake to this conclusion sooner or later. This united action upon this basis has been the hope of my life. I for twenty desired it during the war, and in the recent years it has been my object to the war; I believe it to have rendered in good faith on the accession of Mr. Greeley, and, for one, I cannot regret it. It was what desired. Its consummation, although sudden and startling, does not alarm me; my duty to myself and my country requires me to give him my support. I cannot advocate before your friends a different course which neither my judgment nor my heart approves. It grieves me more deeply to separate myself in thought or act from any of those with whom I have been so long associated, and to whom I am so greatly indebted, but I believe that the result will justify my action, give to the country that peace and concord to every citizen the civil and political equality and freedom which was won by the sacrifice of so many valued lives.

Yours, &c., N. P. BANKS.

CADET SMITH.

The Same Truth About the Colored West Point Cadet—Summary Conclusion of the Blackburn-Mississippian Correspondence.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The Chronicle tomorrow morning will print a history of the case of Cadet Smith, made up from the official record, in reply to the charges made by Mr. David Clark, in a letter to the Tribune. It first reviews the charges of that letter, and then gives the following history: First, he was never tried for violating the rules of the Academy in writing his letter of complaint. That letter contained serious reflections upon the Faculty at West Point, and at the request of Gen. Pitcher, the Superintendent, a Court of Inquiry was convened, by order of the President, to meet at West Point July 12, 1872, to investigate all the allegations in said letter and give an opinion in the case. This Court consisted of Brevet Major-Gen. J. H. Wilson, Brevet Brig.-Gen. H. L. Abbott and Brevet Brig.-Gen. T. F. Rodenbaugh, with Major T. F. Barr as Judge Advocate. Cadet Smith swore before that Court that he did not write those parts in the letter which, as published, were its marked features; that they had been interpolated by some one. Mr. Clark, to whom the letter had been addressed, swore that he procured the publication of the letter in the Hartford Courant, and that it was published exactly as it was written; the original letter had been destroyed. Mr. Clark, moreover, produced in Court a letter from Cadet Smith, which he had not before opened, and which he handed to the Judge Advocate to read, in which Smith stated that he had thought it expedient to draw back from that part about the examination being prepared especially to fix colored cadets, as that would have turned the scales on me, yet I firmly believe it was just so. Cadet Smith was recalled before the Court, and asked if he desired to make any explanation, and, entirely unabashed by his humiliating position, replied that he did not. Mr. Clark was aware of this, and if we are not much mistaken his confidence in the honor of his protégé was considerably shaken. He expressed himself as shocked. The Court of Inquiry found Cadet Smith had lied, prevaricated and insulted an officer of his own color, and recommended the punishment of his persecutors. They also recommended that he himself should be brought to trial before a general Court martial. Here was an opportunity for his dismissal, which his sure conviction would have realized, yet the Secretary of War, who, at a now shared, wished to rid the Academy of his presence, taking into consideration his peculiar position, refrained from bringing him to trial, and only directed a simple reprimand by the Superintendent.

Second—The charges alleged by Mr. Clark to have been preferred against Cadet Smith in October are not correctly set forth, nor are his statements concerning the action of the Court upon them true. On that occasion Smith was tried on but two charges, instead of three. They were: First—Conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline, in assaulting a brother cadet with a dipper. Second—Conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman in violation of paragraph 128 regulations of the United States Military Academy, in making a false written statement to the commandant of cadets in regard to transactions at drill, August, 18, 1871. Cadet Smith was convicted of the first charge, and acquitted of the second, upon the ground that his written statement might be held to apply to another day than the one specified. He had the benefit of a doubt. The punishment adjudged him was a slight one, and the judicial act of the Secretary in remitting it for that reason was a proper one. The record of the trial shows that the trial of Smith was fair and impartial; that the Court and the Judge Advocate acted in strict conformity to the oaths they had taken, and that their acts were characterized by a marked kindness toward the accused. This Court, which it is alleged was a packed one, consisted of the following officers: Brig.-Gen. T. F. Rodenbaugh, Lieut.-Col. T. C. Devin, Lieut.-Col. J. H. Baxter, Major Thomas J. Haines, Major L. H. Pelouze, Capt. E. C. Bainbridge, Capt. M. V. Sheridan, with Major W. Winthrop as Judge Advocate.

Fourth—Mr. Clark's memory is known to have been so much at fault in other particulars that we know he could in his entirely unsupported and misconstrued his conversations with Gen. Howard. We know something of Mr. Clark, and do not believe he would willfully make a false statement. We also know something of Gen. Howard, and feel assured that he would never give utterance to the language with which Mr. Clark credits him, and attributed by that language to the President and Secretary of War is utterly at variance with the course pursued by them at a subsequent time, which Mr. Clark seems to have entirely forgotten, viz., Cadet Smith was brought to trial in January, 1871, under the charge of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, in making, on three occasions, been guilty of deliberate falsehood, twice in written communications to the commandant of cadets. This Court was composed of the following-named officers: Capt. A. Piper, Capt. H. M. Lazelle, Capt. H. A. Rinaldi, Capt. H. A. Dupont, Capt. D. Quilligan, Capt. E. H. Totten, Lieut. E. Russell, with Lieut. A. B. Gardner as Judge Advocate. Smith was found guilty, and sentenced "to be dismissed the service of the United States." Here was an opportunity for the disappointed President and Secretary of War to discharge Smith with all formality, and for what is known in the Service as almost dishonorable offense. Yet, again, sympathy for the poor black boy on their part found expression in the following language: "The proceedings, findings and sentence are approved, but in view of all the circumstances surrounding the case, and believing that the ends of public justice will be better subserved and the police of the Government, of which the presence of this cadet in the Military Academy is a signal illustration, be better maintained by a commutation of the sentence than by its rigid enforcement, the President is pleased to mitigate it by substituting for dismissal from the service of the United States, reduction from his academic standing one year." (General Court-martial Orders, No. 6, Adjutant-General's office, Washington, June 19, 1871.) This explains the charge that the President, by his arbitrary act, set Smith back for one year. The issues of the offense were not in this article, nor are the various issues been called upon to judicially investigate Cadet Smith's treatment and conduct are many of them well known to the country and are a sufficient argument in themselves that no injustice has been done him. The Tribune has given space to Mr. Clark's lengthy communication. Will it, in a spirit of justice, print this refutation?

KINGSTON, Ontario, Aug. 1.—The first contested election for member of the next Dominion Parliament took place here today, between Sir John A. MacDonald, the Premier of the Dominion, and John Gerrithers, Esq. The most energetic exertions were made on both sides, and nearly the entire vote of the city was polled. This is the twelfth time Sir John has been returned for Kingston, which he has represented for twenty-five years.

Fire in Franklin, Mass.—Dean Academy Destroyed.

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—The Dean Academy in Franklin, Mass., was totally destroyed by fire last night. A small portion of the furniture was saved. The total loss will probably amount to $120,000, of which there is an insurance of $40,000, on building, furniture and apparatus originally cost $60,000. The fire is supposed to have been accidentally caused by plumbers who had been at work about the building yesterday afternoon.

The Sixty subscriptions and chemical apparatus and are thought were saved, with most of the pianos and furniture of the parlors and reception-rooms.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 1.—The total insurance on the Dean Academy is $106,000, of which $10,000 is in the Home, and $7,500 in the Citizens' and International Companies of New-York. The balance is mostly in Massachusetts offices. At a meeting of the trustees today it was resolved that the Academy shall be immediately rebuilt, and it was announced that the school will be continued.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

Accounts from Pennsylvania—Matters in the District—Personal News.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Gen. Hartranft, of Pennsylvania, is in town today. He is said to give a good account of affairs in that State. Advices received here now indicate an improvement in the Republican prospects in that State. Those best informed have little doubt but the Republican ticket will be chosen in October.

MATTERS IN THE DISTRICT.

The Republican Party of the district held its regular Convention today, and renominated Gen. N. P. Chipman as a Delegate to Congress with almost no opposition. His election is undoubted. He succeeded in attracting the attention of Congress to the needs of the District, and in securing larger appropriations than were ever made by one session of Congress before. Personally he is popular. There is a scrubbed crowd of Greeleyites, such as the notorious Saylor, Bowen and that lot, in opposition, with of course a few personally unobjectionable men, who, nominally opposing the Board of Public Works, are really seeking to get control of District finances. Bowen had his chance once, and that ended his political career.

PERSONAL.

Supervisors Dutcher and Tutton were here today on official business, and left tonight—the former for New-York and the latter for Baltimore.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

Interest will cease on them Sept. 1, 1872, after which time they will be no longer available as a portion of the lawful money reserve of any national bank.

MARTHA'S VINEYARD.

A Glance at the Island—Edgartown—Attractions of the Place and Characteristics of its People.

From Our Own Correspondent.

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, Monday, July 29, 1872.

Nothing is more surprising than the timidity of New-Yorkers choosing Summer resorts. By far the greater portion with no reason in the world for it, persist in choosing some temporary refuge from the heat without any other recommendation in its favor than that it is "so close to New-York." Like children of so tender a growth that they dare not leave the mother's clinging arms, these fond Gothamites desire above all things to be "within half an hour's ride of the City." It is a pity that any classes should be compelled to choose their summering within so limited a radius, for all the best places are outside of it. Long Branch is, indeed, the only resort that is in the least tolerable, and therefore it is yearly becoming more and more crowded by families, whose heads are in sober truth chained to the City and cannot leave it. But for those who can, for the folks who invade Tarrytown, and Fairview, and the Palisades, and other regions in the immediate vicinity of New-York, no word save that of idiocy will adequately describe their folly. With railroads in every direction, with steam-boats plowing the waters that surround us in every point of the compass, the New-Yorkers flying from such heats as we have experienced lately would do well to extend their orbit very considerably, if they wish to be truly comfortable. Even now there is a tendency toward improvement in this particular. They come even now as single spies along the pleasant shores of the Eastern States, and among the romantic islands of the Vineyard Sound. In a few years it is to be hoped that they will come in battalions. Here in this sequestered land of Martha's Vineyard some adventurous New-Yorkers have already found their way this Summer, and are reveling in fresh air, sea-bathing, croquet and flirtation. But it is doubtful whether they comprehend what a queer place they are inhabiting, and that they are the unobservant witnesses of a state of things which is passing rapidly away. For this island has long been an exceptional place, not alone a nursery for hardy fishers and bold mariners, but also the source from which have sprung many of the leading shipping firms of New-York. The Carys, the Dunhams, the Yates, the Luces, the Spohers and the Daggetts, names neither unknown nor unhonored in the annals of American commerce, are here familiar words, and all the townspeople can point to the houses they used to occupy. Many, even of these, had been the homesteads of their forefathers, which the successful merchants enlarged and beautified and surrounded with sloping lawns and bright flower-beds. Hither the men whose word on our New-York Exchange was ever noted and respected, used to come every Summer and renew the friendship, of their youth ere they became the possessors of millions. Here they used to fish for blue-fish and to endeavor to cultivate an appetite for the brown bread and the baked beans which they had loved in childhood. Not very successfully, perhaps, for eating beans from pure sentiment must be a terrible strain upon the emotions. A few of these fine merchants still remain; a widow here and a son there, or, perhaps, a younger partner, keep up the ancestor and visit Martha's Vineyard, but these things are rapidly merging with the past. The shipping trade of America, perhaps, may revive under the auspices of free-trade, and then these days may come again. But at present the young men who formerly went as naturally to sea as ducks go into the water, seek other occupations and devote their energies into drumming for dry goods, or selling State rights on patent mowers and reapers.

Martha's Vineyard is about as large as Staten Island though somewhat differently shaped. The harbor, or as it is called at present, Vineyard Haven, is on the eastern extremity, between the bendlands of Huxleton's Head and Bellevue Heights, which are distant about twenty-five miles from the eastern extremity of Kaghtahquchewutt, better know as Gay Head. The town of Tisbury is on this heaven, and on the north side of the island. There is another and a rather larger town on the south called Edgartown, which has a little harbor of its own and is still engaged, in a small way, in the whaling business. But Edgartown represents the future of Martha's Vineyard as Tisbury represents its past. Edgartown owns the camp-meeting grove, Edgartown has built two splendid hotels. Edgartown is doing a flourishing stroke of trade in the real estate business. There is a bluff so lean and barren, so sandy and desolate, that it was named Barbury Coast. Edgartown has renamed it Bellevue Heights, and has sold it in cottage lots at fabulous prices. Edgartown has paved streets—a paved street and a sidewalk of patent concrete that does not melt. Edgartown altogether is going ahead. But Tisbury is too many reasons to be preferred. What remains of the old society is still to be found here, and the old houses of the place, many of them of a considerable size, are picturesque both in themselves and their surroundings. Every house is girt around with trees and shrubs, and as each one was built by some individual for his own dwelling, there is not a particle of uniformity, either in the construction or the position. Some present their sides, some their gable ends, some are concealed almost entirely by the neighbors' trees, and to find them you have to penetrate a labyrinth of little alleys winding among plats of vegetables and great clinging vines with immense grapes. They are all indeed of wood. But some are built of shingles, some of boards overlapping, and some of great heavy planks. Some are painted daintily, some rather obtrusively, and some, perhaps the most picturesque of all, have never been painted, and the wood, under the influences of Summer suns and Winter's rains, has become a soft, silky, warm gray very agreeable to the eye, and in delightful harmony with the green trees about. There are but two streets, the upper and the main street, both perched in terrace-form upon the gradual rise of the bank from the water's edge. On the crest of the hill above are plenty of oaks, and a few pines, but these get smaller and smaller as we penetrate further into the island, until the pines disappear altogether, and nothing remains but scrub oak. This concealed very good land, peculiarly adapted for raising sheep, for which, indeed, Martha's Vineyard has always been famous. At the time of the Revolutionary War, Sir Henry Clinton, repeatedly cleaned out the unfortunate inhabitants, on one occasion taking ten thousand sheep and three hundred cattle. Sir Henry was probably as fond of mutton as Charles II., the mutton-eating King, and recognized the superior quality of the island mutton, which is not only superior to anything in America, but also to anything in England, with the single exception of the South-down. The New-Yorkers who are here luxuriate in a meat so novel to their palates, for the mutton of Washington Market is not only tough and strong, but invariably tastes of rank wool. It is a pity that this branch of farming is not pushed by some enterprising individual, for the whole interior of this island is occupied by scrub oak, and the inhabited parts are everywhere near the sea.

On the south side of the island, about equal distance from Edgartown and Gay Head, there is a farm solitary and alone. Behind it is the scrub oak, and in front of it, beyond the pasture, is the sea. Here there is a surf far superior to anything ever witnessed at Long Branch. On calm days, and even when the wind is blowing off the shore, there still is upon the innumerable sands great walls of green water fully six feet high. Sometimes they come in triple ranks like charging cavalry, sometimes a monster wave advances to the attack alone. In the distance you see it forming its purpose amid the tranquil waters beyond. It gathers strength and momentum and then begins to rush forward with tremendous swiftness. At first the green is parched and has a central summit; but as it changes as this because level all along the line. The prodigious mass of moving water is a length separate and rushing to the beach unsupported by the ocean from which it came. You can see the sunlight gleaming through its deep-green wave if you are quick enough in a moment its course is stayed, its momentum is checked, a convulsive shuddering passes along the line, the top curls over in a superb frill, and the whole line of threatening waters is changed to broken foam and sweeping undertow. It is the same water that will again advance to be again beaten back upon the very verge of conquest. Sometimes the wave is more successful. When the wind is on its side and rouses itself to its utmost efforts, then the water triumphs, and the grass banks of sand are beaten into fragments in a moment, and the sea pours triumphantly over the pasture. But this is only a temporary advantage, and the fickle wind heaps up the sand again and helps it to rear bulwarks against the invasion of the tide.

Perhaps the tide of progress that is setting so strongly in at Edgartown may veer to Tisbury and may persuade some one to construct a hotel here for surf-bathers' accommodation. For though Edgartown is on the same side, yet this particular spot, where the surf breaks with such fury, happens, by reason of the shape of the island, to be nearer to Tisbury by four miles. Yet one cannot indulge in any such visions, for in Tisbury they dream more of the past than of the future, and their reveries have no such things as new hotels and surf-bathing for their theme. The superior portion of Tisbury as a Summer resort has been discovered by capitalists, but the people here are so greedy of gain that they were frightened away. There is about Huxleton Head a most enchanting site for a hotel, on a bluff about a hundred feet above them, so the sea, with a splendid natural lawn in front and a back-ground of fine pine-trees. A capitalist offered quite a large sum for it; the owner immediately asked twice as much, and there the matter ended. Now the owner has had it laid out in villa lots at an exorbitant rate, and is advising other people to have land to sell to let some man who wants to put up a hotel have a good plot of land at a reasonable figure. As it will be good for everybody, nobody sees the point about himself, but all think it would be advantageous, and think some one ought to do it. In the meantime the hotel builder went over to the camp-meeting ground at Edgartown and put up his hotel there, and the villa lots are yet unsold. Yet new villas are being built every year, and new settlers are being added, principally by good folks from Massachusetts, who like the place for its history, its associations and its morals. It was discovered by Bartholomew Gosnold in 1602, with the other islands of the group, which were called by him Elizabeth Islands, in honor of Queen Elizabeth. A fruitful region, with Town and New-England, what was called North Virginia, but being afterward colonized from New-York, it became a part of that Colony. Charles II. made a present of the whole Elizabeth group to his brother, the Duke of York, and then they were formed into Duke's County, still being part of New-York. But when the Duke, as James II., was overthrown, the good folks of Massachusetts petitioned that the island might form a part of their province, which William of Orange willingly granted. They deeded this, because the bulk of the inhabitants were then cadets from Dartmouth and New-Bedford, and had a very paternal feeling for the men of Massachusetts. Their religious views were alike, and their mode of living the same. Now, at this moment, the home-life of the place is New-Englandish in every particular. There is the same general consumption of fish, the same love of baked pork and beans, the same hideous brown bread, there is a mother's skill in clammy and sweetened with molasses, the same love of pies, and the same ability to make them good, the same temperance lays and the same spirit of universal kindness. The men neither drink nor swear, and the boys do not throw stones at birds or animals. The consequence is that everything is excessively tame. When I go bathing early in the morning, for here every one is excessively early, I generally come across some pet beast, which if I call it will come to me with unheatening confidence. I have in this way made friends with a large white rabbit, a parroquet, which perched itself on my finger, and seemed very reluctant to get rid of me, two white kittens, and a marmoset. When I went to the south side to see the surf, and asked directions at the lonely farm-house, a colt shoved up the latch with its nose and got the door open. The folks were at dinner, and paid no attention to him, though he whinnied occasionally, and I presumed that he was in the habit of doing it, which proved to be the case. These are but little things, but they are sufficient to show that kindness to the brute creation is here a thing of course. In my next I will send you an account of the Indian settlement on Gay Head, the camp-meeting ground. GAIL.

THE UXBRIDGE BANK ROBBERS.

Restoration of Keepsakes Taken From the Bank Vaults.

From the Boston Herald, July 29.

About 11 o'clock, Saturday, Eben B. Hayward and Jacob Taft, gentlemen connected with the Uxbridge Bank, called at the office of the Chief of Police, in this city, with a communication without a signature, mailed at New-York City, July 25, stating that some articles stolen from the Uxbridge Bank could be found buried in the Back Bay lands, giving a diagram of the locality. At first the case had rather a doubtful look, but on comparing the envelope with another then in the same, gentlemen had previously received, containing papers that were stolen from the Bank on the night of the robbery, it was decided to explore the locality. Officers Ham and Wood, of the city police, in company with the gentlemen above-named, immediately set out to prospect. Guided by the diagram they proceeded to the grounds, borrowed tools from some workmen in the neighborhood and began operations. After a somewhat protracted search a copy of a Boston newspaper was unearthed, containing a gold watch, a diamond ring, two plain gold rings, a gold thimble, a pair of hair bracelets, two gold pencils, two pairs of gold-bowed spectacles and several other articles, which were keepsakes, the property of little Mabel Taft, left to her by her deceased mother, and which had been placed in the vault of the bank for safe-keeping by her grandfather, the Cashier. Mr. Hayward expresses great satisfaction at the recovery of the property, and thinks there is truly honor among some thieves, believing as he does that the communication was sent by the burglars in response to his advertisement stating that these articles belonged to an orphan child. The property was unearthed near the junction of Dartmouth and Norbury streets, and from that place (the exact length and location of which the letter gave) had been removed since the concealment of the property, there would have been no difficulty in going to the exact spot where it was found.

The recovery of the above stolen property inspired confidence in the statements of another letter received by same gentlemen from an anonymous source, and, following the directions given in the letter, they went to South Framingham Saturday afternoon, and found a bag containing $50 in five-cent nickel coins concealed behind a stone wall near the railroad depot.

A German View of Greeley's Financial Theories.

From the New-Yorker Handels-Zeitung.

We never had any desire, nor have we any at present, to play a part in politics, but we are compelled to touch this slippery subject when ever political events react on finances, or whenever our financial leaders step upon it. Thus we were compelled to follow Mr. Boutwell on his stumping tour in North Carolina. We expressed on that occasion, as we have often before, our disapproval of Mr. Boutwell's financial theories, but we hope that this opinion of ours will not be misconstrued to the effect that we are fighting for the candidate of the opposition, or that we shall be numbered among the friends of Mr. Greeley. Without being an admirer of Gen. Grant, we think that every possible effort ought to be made to defeat the election of Greeley, under whose administration we would have to jump from the frying-pan into the fire. The stubbornness of our present Secretary of the Treasury, who, instead of curing our wounds, merely plasters them over, is madness, but there is at least method in it, though our country does not gain anything by it, the reduction of the public debt off-ers some kind of equivalent for the great sacrifices, and the money levied by taxes and imposts does not entirely go to spoil entirely in vain. If we consider the advantages from our present administration in this respect as merely negative, we are sure that the disadvantages which would follow the election of Greeley must be of a most positive character. For a number of years Greeley has shown in his official organ, the New-York Tribune, ideas about financial policy which betray the greatest ignorance of all fundamental principles of sound administration. As an incarnate protectionist, he would like to build a Chinese wall around our country, and, in spite of all his promises, if once elected, he would opposed by all his influence any reduction of the tariff. His advice, given through hundreds of editorials, is to sell all the gold in the Treasury, no matter if it belongs to the Government or not, and to buy out of the proceeds an equal amount of our bonds. How to take up the gold certificates, how to pay the interest, or how to provide for a fund for the final redemption of our debt, he would not bother himself with; small matters are above the consideration of the great philosopher! Horace Greeley has always been too much in love with his own hobbies, and when once in power he would certainly try to realize them, no matter what it costs. Under the most favorable circumstances, the election of Mr. Greeley would be followed by blind experiments, detrimental to all departments, but certainly ruinous to our finances. It is for these practical reasons, and entirely independent of our love of the Republican Party, whose idea of secession we have never thinked, that we would consider the victory of Horace Greeley and the Democratic Party equal to a national disaster.

THE PRESS OF THE COUNTRY.

From the Morgantown (West Va.) Post.

The NEW-YORK TIMES is the best daily paper in the United States, and the only one in New-York City that had the courage to commence an exposé of the Tammany thievery, all others being mere followers. It is vindicating and deserving of a liberal support.

The NEW-YORK TIMES, the paper that waged relentless war on corruption and struck such powerful blows at Tammany and Tammany thieves to arrest, has never been forgiven by the Ring organs. They have even gone so far as to call it Grant's own. As Sermon said on a memorable occasion, "This is terrible," but the TIMES still continues the fight.

Trenton (N. J.) Gazette.

The evidence comes from all quarters that the Tribune has suffered terribly for its trenchery to the Republican Party. A correspondent writes: "The New-Jersey Mail Agent said on the cars this week that before Greeley's nomination they carried on the Hudson River Railroad thirteen bags of Tribunes, but now only three. A newsboy on the train says he was stuck with 100 Tribunes two days after Greeley's indorsement at Baltimore. He usually sold 150, but now only fifty."

Moline (Ill.) Review.

The NEW-YORK TIMES is the most outspoken and widely circulated journal of the country, and is doing brave work for the success of the principles it advocates. It was the first metropolitan paper to expose and denounce the corrupt Tammany Ring, and it has been the most faithful vindicator and supporter of Gen. Grant's Administration.

Connersville (Ind.) Times.

Elsewhere we publish a brief prospectus of the NEW-YORK TIMES, one of the leading papers of the country, and when the managing editor of the Tribune is at the leading Republican paper of the country. It will be sent to the campaign subscribers six months for fifty cents, which, considering the size and worth of the paper is the cheapest newspaper offer we have ever heard of. Many persons in this county have been faithful readers of the Tribune, and while some are sending it back now, accompanied with not very complimentary remarks, many others will stop when the time for which they have paid expires. To all such we would say that the NEW-YORK WEEKLY TIMES is an excellent substitute for the Tribune, and as good in every respect, while the political matter in it will be more to their taste than the Democratic arguments that new crowd the columns of the Tribune.

Norwich (Conn.) Bulletin.

The circulation of the Tribune in the city has fallen off over one-half since Mr. Greeley's nomination. At the principal news-office only one-third as many are sold as formerly.

Burlington (Vt.) Free Press.

A gentleman who has just been through Northern New-York, says pretty much all the enthusiasm shown for the Greeley ticket is by the few Liberal Republicans, while the Democrats are almost unanimous. The circulation of the Tribune in that region is rapidly diminishing. In Moira thirty-nine copies were taken, and now not one! In Dickinson only three subscribers are left of a large club. So it goes!

Columbia (S. C.) Union.

The NEW-YORK TIMES, campaign edition, is now ready for subscribers at the very low rates of fifty cents for six months. Those who desire a first-class, thoroughly reliable Republican journal, published at the Metropolis of the nation, will do well to subscribe to the TIMES. It will be recollected that the TIMES was the paper which first exposed the Tammany frauds, and pursued the guilty culprits until public opinion drove them into a confession of their crimes. It is needless to say that the TIMES heartily supports Grant, while the Tammany thieves, to a man, support Greeley.

Camden (N. J.) Press.

Those Republicans who have discontinued their subscriptions to the New-York Tribune, and are wishing for a newspaper to supply the place, will find in the NEW-YORK TIMES the paper they desire. It is the leading Republican journal in the United States, is one of the most ably edited newspapers the country can boast of, and is doing a noble work for Grant and Wilson.

Niles (Mich.) Republican.

We give in another column the prospectus of the NEW-YORK TIMES, the best and ablest Republican paper in the country. We regret the defection of the Tribune, the TIMES (which in reality took the lead in the work of Reform in New-York) is the New-York paper that every Republican should subscribe for.

Dunn County (Wis.) News.

The NEW-YORK TIMES is a paper we can recommend to our readers as reliable in its news, firm and decided in its convictions, and a stanch, unwavering advocate of the principles of true Republicanism. It was the TIMES that waged the relentless warfare against the Tammany Ring, and finally succeeded in breaking up the Ring. The TIMES is now the Republican "organ," and has followed after "strange gods." Republicans, generally, look upon the TIMES as the true exponent of their principles and are patronizing it accordingly. Its campaign edition is within the reach of every Republican (and Democrat, for that matter) caught to subscribe at once.

Sedalia (Mo.) Times.

The NEW-YORK TIMES is now the leading Republican paper in New-York, and it is exerting more influence toward purifying politics than any other paper in the country. To it is mainly due the exposure and overthrow of the powerful Tammany Ring of New-York City. It sought out the proofs of corruption, and presented them in such a shape that even the dullest perceived that at last even Tweed could no longer say "What are you going to do about it?" It has shown that the corruptions were not confined to a small Ring, but they were participated in by officials of all degrees from Gov. Hoffman, who a year ago was the most probable candidate for the Democratic nomination for Presidency, down to the Sheriff, who made enough in illegal fees each year to make a man rich. Nor were the Judges free from corruption, and through the efforts of the TIMES they have been brought to account. Judge Cardozo resigned to save himself from impeachment; Judge Barnard was removed from office by a unanimous vote of the New-York Senate; other Judges have been impeached, and will be removed from the benches they have so disgraced. While the TIMES has been doing all this, or stirring up the public sentiment which demanded its accomplishment, the leading Republican paper in the country has been silent or have defended Tammany and its Ring. The Tribune has scarcely kept up with public sentiment, and very rarely has gone beyond in demanding punishment of the guilty parties. We are told by all Democrats and Liberals that Greeley is the perfection of honesty, and that, if he should come into power, no corruption would be noted for the honesty and virtue which would characterize it; yet he has been the apologist of Tammany thieves, and is enthusiastically supported by such men as A. Oakey Hall, Tweed, Brennan and Morrissey. What a bright prospect for an honest administration!

Cortland (N. Y.) Standard & Journal.

The Tribune asked and received the assistance last Fall and Winter, of Republicans in this and other States, to extend its circulation—and it perpetrated a bold fraud upon them in doing so. It asked them to assist it upon the express proposition that it should support the Republican candidate for President this Fall. At the time it asked and received this support from Republicans, it had completed a secret bargain to betray the party. There can be no question that the Tribune asked and received this aid from Republicans after having bargained to sell the party, we print the following letter, the original, in manuscript, being now in our possession, addressed to a fellow-townsman in Cortland:

NEW-YORK TRIBUNE,
NEW-YORK, Nov. 15, 1871.

DEAR SIR: In view of the approaching Presidential election, we are anxious to increase the circulation of the Tribune. Will you be kind enough to furnish us with the name of one good, active Republican at each post-office in your county, who would probably undertake to form a club for the Weekly Tribune, to increase the one already formed?

If you think, with us, that an unexpected union of the Democrats and Liberals will nominate the Republican candidate for President, we shall be glad to have you comply with our request at an early day.

Very respectfully,
SAMUEL SINCLAIR, Publisher.

To this appeal of Samuel Sinclair, the publisher of the Tribune, the gentleman believing the Tribune was honest, assisted in getting many subscribers for that paper in the county. We ask any honest man if these subscribers were not gotten under false pretenses?—a fraud has not been practiced upon them?—and sought not the money to be returned? It seemed to us, and we know it does to many others, that should the Tribune now break into the fold of some man in the dead of night and steal a dollar or two dollars from his pocket while he slept, it would be no more than an act obtaining subscriptions to their paper under false pretenses, and quite as meanly.

Improvements at Harvard College.

From the Boston Transcript, July 30.

Improvements in the Harvard College library are now in contemplation. When Gore Hall was built it was supposed that it was large enough to contain all the books of the library, and that enough allowance had been made for any future additions, but the present state of the library shows conclusively that there was not enough allowance made for these additions. In consequence inconvenience and improvements are now under serious consideration. It is probable that the alterations will be made in a short time. The interior of that edifice will

The Democrats of Montgomery and Lehigh Counties Sustaining the "Milkmen's Gage"—Cheering Prospect for the Full Campaign—Strength of the Republican Ticket in the Eastern Part of the State—Gen. Hartranft Sure of Election.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NORRISTOWN, Wednesday, July 31, 1872.

Within the last week events have transpired in this section of the State which will have a tendency to strengthen materially the Republican interests of Montgomery and Lehigh Counties. Chief among these is the split which has occurred among the Democracy on the question of the Congressional nomination. According to the established rules of the party here, the present member, Hon. E. L. Acker (editor of the Norristown Register—a Greeley sheet) is entitled to another term at Washington, and his friends, of course, insist upon his renomination. An obstacle, which may yet prove insurmountable, has manifested itself, however, and threatens to occasion even more serious trouble in the statement of supposed Congressional honesty than that which so present exists out of local unpopularity. The present Congressional district embraces Lehigh and Montgomery Counties. Both of these claim the privilege of the nomination. Lehigh's statement of the matter is that as the new apportionment will probably result in the separation of the counties into different Congressional districts, the old two-term rule will not apply, and that Montgomery County has already had more than her share in the last ten years, having been represented during six of these. Montgomery County, on the other hand, regards this attempt of the Lehigh Democracy to obtain the privilege of nomination as an unpardonable act of personal malice, and is determined to stand by her nominee, cost what it may, quoting as a precedent the case of Hon. John D. Stiles, who was elected to a second term through the generosity which gave to Lehigh the right of nomination for two successive terms.

On the 24th inst. the Congressional conferees of the district met at Allentown for the purpose of settling the difficulties, but with no result, a second meeting being called for the 29th inst. at the Girard House, Philadelphia. This also failed to accomplish the purpose. Several attempts were made to secure the calling of a District Convention. Each of these were voted down, however, by the Lehigh conferees, who refused to accept any offer based upon the relative political strength of the counties, or the differences in their districting and population. Thus the matter rests at present with no prospect of settlement. Neither county shows the least inclination to back down, and the ultimate result may be the placing of an independent ticket in the field. At all events, the difficulty is going to contribute very greatly to the success of the Republican ticket. Two years ago, when Oliver, (now deceased) of Lehigh, ran for Congress against the present member and candidate for re-election, the Democratic ticket was saved from defeat in Lehigh by only a couple of hundred votes, and in Montgomery County—where the honorable member was able to electioneer widely by means of the paper which he edited—it even lost many votes. Should, therefore, the same member be placed in nomination a second time with the consent of Lehigh—where the opposition is many times stronger now than two years ago—there is every probability that a popular Republican candidate could carry the district, which cannot be counted on now for more than a few hundreds majority for the opposition at the best.

To-morrow the Republicans of Montgomery meet in County Convention at this place, to nominate a Congressman, delegates to Constitutional Convention, and candidates for local offices. Upon the result of that Convention very much depends. In proportion as the Republican local ticket is successful, Hartranft and Grant will gain votes, and vice versa.

Another thing which will have an influence upon the vote here is the Democratic disaffection in regard to the national candidates. In this county there are three Democratic organs. But one of these—that edited and owned by Congressman Acker—supports Greeley and Brown. The other two (which have each a larger circulation) not only refuse to yield their assent to the Baltimore nominees, but are also daring enough to denounce in violent terms the treachery of the men who placed them in nomination. The fact that one of these is a German paper, of wide influence among our German or "Pennsylvania Dutch" citizens, of whom we have many, is not very favorable to the success of the Democratic Congressional nominee in October.

Besides the journalistic opposition to the Baltimore nominees, there is a wide-spread feeling of discust among the Democracy generally. One of our Associate Judges, a very prominent and life-long Democrat, remarked the other day, in reply to a question whether or not he would support Greeley and Brown, that he had always thought more of principles than men, and as the Democratic Party had thrown overboard every principle it ever owned, he no longer felt under any obligations to vote for its candidates.

Our candidate for Governor is gaining strength daily. The utterly false reports concerning the prospect of his withdrawal have obtained no credence whatever in the State. The fact of the matter is that the hand of malice is too plainly visible in all the charges made against him to admit of their belief by the people generally. The matter commenced in Pittsburgh, to give Hartranft their hearty support. Lehigh opened the campaign vigorously, and Luzerne, the stronghold of the Democracy in times past, is being very successfully canvassed by Gen. Ketcham. One great features of the year is the change in the political relations of the mining population. The hitherto solid Republican Party in this State has taken for granted, is appreciated by the sturdy workmen of the coal mines at last, and there is not a more unpopular man on the street with them now than Buckalew. In Schuylkill County, as well as Berks, the Democratic ticket meets with no enthusiasm whatever, and the Republican ticket is sure to gain largely.

In our county the ticket meets with a warmer approval day by day. We have a large Hartranft Club which is doing effective service, and on its rolls will be found the names of many influential Democrats. Our colored citizens will present a monster meeting Saturday evening, the more effectively to bring out the full colored vote.

You may credit no reports which speak of disaffection in Pennsylvania. The people are too intelligent to be misled by charges made through any member of the Forney family. The "family" can never succeed in venting their personal spite by accomplishing the defeat of the State ticket, so long as there are so many sound journals in the State to "nail the lies" uttered by the two corrupt ones.

You may look to Pennsylvania confidently for a Republican victory in October and November.

Proposed Monument to Ellsworth.

From the Troy Times, July 31.

One of the earliest martyrs to rebellion was Col. E. E. Ellsworth, of Mechanicville. His death at the hands of Jackson, as he was pulling down the rebel flag which waved over the Marshall House in Alexandria, and his quick avenging by the Troops, Frank Brownell, sent a thrill of patriotism throughout the North which was surpassed only by the traitorous act of the secessionists in firing upon Fort Sumter. He parents have started a plan to raise money sufficient to erect a monument to his memory, and have placed the matter in the hands of his old friend who will doubtless secure sufficient aid to enable this long cherished object to be accomplished. The following papers are now signed by them:

Our noble Marshal Dean, Ex-Collector of Customs of Charleston District, New-York, has set manly spirit, and manifest a willingness to do all in our power to aid in the work toward the erection of a suitable monument to the memory of our son, Col. Elmer E. Ellsworth. E. D. ELLSWORTH.

CUBA.

Humanity Treatment of Cuban Prisoners by the Cuban Authorities—Miscellaneous Items.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HAVANA, Saturday, July 27, 1872.

The article of the London Times advising the Government of Spain to sell that disputed island of property, the Island of Cuba, has called forth some very patriotic articles from the Spanish Press favorable to slavery and opposed to the dismemberment of territory, and as a matter of course, from the Island journals. The Diario says that the Times has brought forward a false statement, namely, the slavery question, and that Spain has accomplished, with the consent and applause of those most interested, what the United States only realized after a bloody war. The Diario adds: "This question is virtually settled, and to insist on it appears to us simply absurd, even if the United States should attempt an immediate solution, which would ruin their important commerce with the Island. The thinking people of the neighboring Republic have generally been opposed to any act which could endanger the manifold transactions which it maintains with this province." The Diario then attributes the phrase of the Times' article, "Spain has rights in Cuba which the other nations are bound to respect," and embraces the opportunity by interposing as of the fact, "that in these at these states Spain has conquered the insurrection, and with such an excess of humanitarian sentiments that many nations can envy us." The Diario then continues to state that the persecution of American citizens of which the Times complains are a myth, and that those Americans who live in Cuba profess good will to such Americans residing here, attending to their business, who don't meddle with politics.

These assertions of the Diario are more or less exaggerated, and presented in an ambiguous sense. The slavery question is today where it was ten years ago, and the Gradual Emancipation law is a farce and a dead letter for all practical purposes. Not only does this law enable the rich and proud plantation owners to take the same amount of labor out of such slaves as are not able to work as they did ten years ago, but the slaves are bought and sold today the same as ever, and none receive even the slightest remuneration for their labor. This slave-owner has one predominating and all over-powering idea—to get all the labor possible out of the slaves, to produce every pound of sugar which the soil may yield, to deposit all surplus funds and savings abroad, make every sacrifice possible to crush the insurrection and maintain the flag of Spain floating over Cuban soil, or, in other words, use their utmost endeavors to maintain the institution of slavery. Even the proclamation of Gen. Cebalios regarding the emancipated negroes—this title of Emancipado being only a cover for slavery under another name—has not, and will not produce any effect, as the wealth of the country, the ruling powers of the situation, even, buy and sell these emancipados like so many hogs or sheep—the very Government, therefore, being indirectly an owner or trafficker in negroes. But another and graver one has yet to be mentioned, and, regarding all rumors which are in circulation, and which have stirred the indignation of thousands of Spaniards even, is now occurring in this city. Spaniards abroad reading cases like the one I shall now mention, are only too apt to qualify a recital of such disgraceful and cruel fact, as the outpourings of an enemy to Spain, and of a sympathizer with the revolution, when, as in this instance, only a plain and unvarnished recital is given.

Opposite the jail, and within the moat of the old city-wall, exist a series of buildings, occupied by all Chinese found without documents, or arrested for smoking opium or playing cards. It is also a depot for Cimmaron who have concluded their contract, and are waiting to re-contract themselves or to return to China. A fortnight ago this depot contained over nine hundred Chinamen; today not 450 can be found there. As nothing remains hidden here, the secret of their disappearance, and the heart-rending notes and cries of Chinamen in agony, were soon explained. A Commissioner was offering and selling them to planters and others, at from one hundred to four hundred dollars a head, the whip being applied to each Chinaman as refused to sign a contract for six years of slavery, only a few being obliged, according to law, to re-contract themselves. The first sales were made to Mr. Barahona, a baker, of twenty-six, and to Mr. Jose Baro, of thirteen, ninety-two being sold on Thursday. The public soon became aware of these facts, and the Junta de Colonization, whose duty it is to investigate such matters, also heard of it, but only three out of the whole number were in favor of arresting the man who countenanced the sale, he being the same and only person who has any control over the Deposits and contracts, but the rest overruled them. The people who were sold were only Chinamen; the man charged with being the sole author of this foul deed, and who pocketed the proceeds of the sale, and is still selling them, is Don Gregorio de Tassies, the political Governor of Havana, and a Spaniard, already recalled, not on account of malfeasance in office, because he has only been here two months, but because he does not belong to the party of which the present ministry is composed. That acting Captain-General Ceballos knows of this cannot be doubted, and I really regret that the popular voice accuses him of authorizing the conduct of the Governor, thus making himself an accomplice. The Spanish Press in the Island will not dare to refer to this transaction; the subsidized and unfair partisan Press abroad will say that is not true. The Spanish Colonial Minister, on receiving the remonstrances of Earl Granville, based on the report of Her Britannic Majesty's Consul-General, will reply that he has no official knowledge of the fact, and, except among the poor Chinamen sold as slaves and the three or four individuals who pocketed the proceeds, it will soon be forgotten, after being a nine days' wonder and town talk.

The Diario's remark about that excess of humanitarian sentiments which has been employed by the Spaniards since the war began, is something which was not known hitherto, and if the Diario would only give us some facts the thing might be made clear. As to the immunity enjoyed by Americans, who attend to their business and don't meddle with politics, the Diario has told the truth. But it must be borne in mind that mostly all Americans doing business here on a large scale are stronger partisans of the Spanish cause than the Spaniards themselves. The same motive which makes the wealthy planter so liberal and grandiloquently patriotic, also makes these Americans so—the hunting after and retention of the almighty dollar. The American, however, who dares to tell the truth, and, who remains either neutral or indifferent to the war going on in Cuba, is not as well off as his Spanish mellow countrymen. The Spaniards think that all those who are not for them are against them, which is a grave error. Newspaper correspondents, although indifferent to the question at issue and anxious only to give a correct version, are objects of suspicion to the lower classes, but not to the intelligent, and the Havana correspondence in some of the Spanish papers is often expressed and unjust.

WAR NEWS.

Gen. Cirnesillis, Ex-General commanding the jurisdictions of Morron and Sancti Spiritus, has arrived at Havana. Gen. Fajardo having relieved him. Gen. Acosta has left his district, and is expected here in a few days, having gone first on a visit to his plantations near Sancti Spiritus. Gen. Ampudia, commanding the District of Holguin, is also expected here. Gen. Portella, in command of the Cinco Villas, being here already. All these Generals come to confer with Ceballos, and tell him how things really look in the interior. No engagements of importance are reported, but quite a number of skirmishes have occurred; in the jurisdiction of Holguin the Cubans contrive to save the best of it, but such masses of troops are moved in that district that they will abandon it for some fresh field of operation inside of ten days. The Cuban Lieutenant Milanes and Spanish Captain Velasco were killed on the 20th. Col. Weyler killed 8 insurgents within ten days, losing four killed and eleven wounded. Among the Cubans captured near Guamacro were Aurusain Aldama, Cuban Postmaster-General, Pimpo Rillos, a planter from Holguin, two brothers Leon, and Ortin and Valdre Cruz, formerly of Vicente Garcia's staff. The telegram is not sufficiently explicit, whether these Cubans belong to the crowd which surrenders as so much a head, or those which, when caught, lose their head. The number of people surrendering near Holguin and Las Tunas is large, but the majority of these people came in for safety, in order to be protected against the soldiers and the insurgents. Gen. Ceballos, on assuming command, pardoned a Cuban of Porto Principe named Pedro Alonso Estmez, charged with treason. In the Central Department, the Spaniards destroyed a saddlery, killing the three workmen; other wise there is nothing of importance from the places where the revolution is gaining enough to defend itself, and even to attack.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Mr. J. C. Hinrichs, a German merchant, and Russian Consul at Havana, who was very attentive during the stay of Duke Alexis, has just received the Cross of the Order of Saint Stanislaus from the Emperor of Russia. Another merchant, Mr. Luis Will, the German Consul, received the Spanish Grand Cross of Charles the III., and is now a Spanish excellency. Capt. Hagfrich commanding the lately invisible German Volunteers, to which a few Americans and other foreigners belong, calls on his men to come forward and receive the condecorations which will enable them to wear the medal of honor, granted by the King to the Cuban Volunteers. These German Volunteers once went on parade and got wet, which embrazed all their deeds in the field. A confectionery store in Matanzas was robbed of $2,000 by a slave, who so far has escaped arrest. Don José Antonio Aispurua, an uncle of Valmaseda's, and retired merchant, who was lately elected to the Vice-Presidency of the Spanish Bank, has resigned the position and gone to Spain. One of the directors of the bank has gone to New-York to hurry up the printing of the annual notes. The Spanish political club, the Casino, gave a concert to the families of members on Thursday evening. All the journals condemn the attempt to assassinate King Amadeus. It is reported the International Telegraph Company will place an American steamer to carry telegrams between Havana and Key West, the Spanish steamers used now being too slow. The steamer Barcelona has already begun to make trips between Havana and Santiago de Cuba. The Junta of planters, capitalists and merchants, organized since 1868 for the purpose of providing extraordinary resources, has held several meetings under the presidency of Gen. Ceballos, but has not found out yet how to pay debts without money, or how to fill the Treasury, while the Custom-house defrauds the Government of several millions annually, except to contract with the Spanish bank to issue a few millions more of paper money, the very thing which it is intended to avoid. Preparations are now made to establish a branch of the Spanish bank in Porto Rico, the reasons for this being obvious, as it would afford a larger field to the notes to circulate and enable the Island of Cuba to receive the same money from Porto Rico.

SPECIAL CAMPAIGN SUPPLEMENT.

We beg to announce that, on an early day next week, we shall publish the first of a series of SPECIAL SUPPLEMENTS to the TIMES, printed in large, clear type, and to be repeated as often as may be deemed necessary. The first of the series will contain:

1. A list of the Tammany supporters and allies of Horace Greeley, with facts proving the alliance between them.

2. A clear and concise statement of the results of Democratic rule in New-York City.

3. Jake Thompson's and Holcombe's letters, with an account of Mr. Greeley's celebrated "Peace Negotiations," and his letter trying to bring about the defeat of President Lincoln after his second nomination.

4. A compilation showing Mr. Greeley's policy during the rebellion—his encouragement to the South to quit the Union, and afterward his savage demands for their punishment and the division of their lands.

5. A compact and lucid exhibit of Gen. Grant's financial, Indian and foreign policy.

6. A record of Gen. Grant's opinions on all questions of public interest, compiled from his own Messages and other documents.

7. A statement of Mr. Greeley's wild and erratic theories on financial questions generally.

8. An interesting sketch of Gen. Grant's achievements during the war, showing the great services he rendered to the country while Mr. Greeley was clamoring for peace at any price.

In addition to the above we shall publish several special articles of great interest and value to all true Republicans, and to honest men of both parties, who regard with disgust the present infamous coalition between the worst class of Democrats and renegade Republicans.

We shall print 250,000 copies of this edition to start with. Orders should be forwarded without delay to this office.

Our special dispatches from North Carolina—containing the only reliable information to be obtained at this hour—indicate a Republican victory in that State, reversing its political complexion as reflected by the election in 1870. If this indication should be borne out by subsequent and fuller intelligence, it will show that the "revolution" has been indefinitely postponed. Meantime, the character of the Associated Press dispatches can be learned from the statements of our correspondent in another column.

Our dispatches from Tennessee contain the first reply of the negroes to the advice of Mr. SUMNER. It is expressed in votes, and shows a decided decrease in the strength of the Democracy in that State.

People in this City are now receiving a speech of FERNANDO WOOD'S and another of Senator SUMNER'S in one envelope, and bearing the frank of "FERNANDY WUD" himself—surely a piece of practical irony in politics which it would be hard to match. Explain the enigma how you will, the substantial fact remains that FERNANDO WOOD and CHARLES SUMNER are now working side by side together in the same cause. Of course it is for the "good of the colored race"—ask FERNANDY if it isn't.

The editor of the World, with characteristic modesty, publishes a fleering paragraph about our "libels" upon Gen. KILPATRICK. Will the public believe that this man was among the first to attack KILPATRICK for the offense of which he has been so frequently accused—that it copied the whole story from the Panama Star, and afterward abused him with as much virulence as it ever brought to bear upon Gen. SICKLES? That is the fact—and now the World says that KILPATRICK'S story got, some years ago, into "some scurrilous sheet here." The editor of the World is describing his own paper. That was the "scurrilous sheet" which reproduced the story. We may also say that the Express has bitterly assailed Gen. KILPATRICK for the same old score. Yet, in their generous hope to see the TIMES brought to grief, (in which they will be disappointed,) they now describe the simple repetition of a thrice-told tale as a "libel." We shall see.

In Mr. WHITELAW REID'S gushing essay on "Journalism," (which he has now published in three different forms, thus showing a touching love for his little offspring,) he deprecates the habit of slandering public men. It is a great pity that he cannot be persuaded to reduce his theories to practice. For instance, when he stated that the proprietors of this paper had been in conference with Judge MCCUNN and Senator O'BRIEN about getting offices for O'BRIEN'S supporter, he must have known that he published a slander. In a thousand other lines he has been guilty of a similar offense. In yesterday's Tribune there is a paragraph in which it is insinuated that the President was involved in the great frauds of Black Friday. This is as base a slander as was ever published, and the author of the above "brilliant" lecture must know that it is a slander, for Mr. HORACE GREELEY has told him so. This is what Mr. GREELEY wrote and published on Oct. 18, 1869:

"The insinuation that the President was in collusion with the gold gamblers never had a fact to lift it above the level of audacious slander, or a motive save the earnest sensationalism or clumsy malignity. There was a combination to put gold up. When it assumed dangerous proportions Gen. GRANT interfered and crushed it. Thereupon he is charged with having been a member of it! The country knows its President to be incapable of such conduct. If it did not, it would still be able, in so plain a case, to reason that men are not secretly seeking that which they openly, determinedly and effectively destroy. By their fruits ye shall know them."

This is Mr. GREELEY'S opinion of the slander now repeated by his successor. And yet the retailer of the slander presumes to lecture mankind on the decadence of what he calls his "profession."

Gen. BANKS has gone over to GREELEY and the Democrats, explaining his secession on grounds which ought to induce him to attack Congress rather than the President. If Mr. GREELEY were to be elected—which heaven prevent!—and Congress adopted the policy of which Mr. BANKS complains, what could GREELEY do but carry out those measures? And when Mr. H. J. RAYMOND tried in 1866 to induce Congress to deal leniently with the South, did BANKS or GREELEY assist him? Did they not rather defame his motives, and misrepresent his every act? A few years bring about strange changes. We have GREELEY trying to rise to power under pretence of a policy of conciliation, which he crushed at a time when alone it might have been effectual. As for Gen. BANKS' letter, we think we know of another letter which will take the shine out of that, as our young excursionists say.

The last, but by no means the least, Democratic convert to Greeleyism that has turned up is "Jo" HAMILTON, the Attorney-General of California. In a speech delivered in San Francisco, last week, he told his hearers that "he did not know what had come over the people that Democrats should take GREELEY without any salt or sugar," but on the whole he was inclined to regard the present as an "astonishing movement." At any rate it "had astonished the old Democrats," and although he found it a bitter pill to swallow, yet, if GREELEY fulfilled his obligations and his promises to his supporters, he, for one, would be willing to canonize that old white hat of his, and wear white hats from this time forward. It may be interesting to the colored people who are asked to vote the same ticket with "Jo" HAMILTON, to know that he is the same individual who last Summer made a speech to a crowd of fellow Democrats in San Francisco, in which he said that "he gave up the colored vote entirely to the Republicans. It was of Republican origin, and the Democracy didn't want it. The Democratic Party would have no colored voters if in power, and this being their well-known principle, why should they count the votes of colored men?" In the same speech "Jo" told his hearers how to convert Republicans to the Democratic Party. The process was original, and consisted in "knocking them on the head" when other arguments proved unavailing. The "Liberal" Party ought to be proud of the accession of "Jo" HAMILTON to their ranks, and we shall expect to see the Tribune announce his name in big letters.

The poor old Tribune—all that remains of it—calls promiscuously upon its friends—including TWEED, HALL, SWEENY, CONNOLLY & Co.—to bring twenty actions for libel against us between this and Saturday next. In fact, the Professor—slightly moonstruck at all times—fancies he sees the body of his prostrate foe upon the ground, and forthwith dances his favorite Democratic dance over it. Not so fast, Professor. Between this and next November many curious things will happen, and we shall doubtless have a hand in them. In the meantime, among your ardently-desired score of libel-suits cannot you induce your preceptor, REUBEN E. FENTON, to bring just one? We have given him a biography, in our list of bad characters, much longer than we devoted to KILPATRICK. Here it is:

"REUBEN E. FENTON—Started in life as a dishonest clerk; has been intimately associated with FISK and GOULD; is known to have extorted large sums of money from the Central Railroad; connected with every dirty or corrupt job in New-York politics ever since he has been in public life; repeatedly charged with taking bribes for signing bills while Governor; is now compelling a Senate Committee clerk to forge his name to Greeley campaign documents."

Now you may call this "libel," but we offer to make good that and ten times as much in a Court of law. Suppose you persuade your political teacher to give us the opportunity? If you desire to slake your thirst for actions against the TIMES, here, surely is an excellent chance for you.

Kilpatrick's Suits.

The joy displayed by some of our contemporaries over the proceedings taken by Gen. KILPATRICK seems to be rather disproportionate to the importance of the event. The charge reproduced in these columns against KILPATRICK has been published at one time or other in pretty nearly every paper in the country, and has never been disproved—certainly, not to our knowledge. Least of all has it ever been contradicted in this journal. When Mr. SCHUYLER stated that Mr. RAYMOND, or anybody else, had withdrawn it, he was led into an inaccuracy, which we should be glad to afford him the means of correcting. Our files and index are at his service—if he can find any article in this journal which withdrew the charge in question, we should be glad to have it pointed out to us. It has not been repeated, and we suppose, from the silence of those who published it, that it was withdrawn at the time, or at least that it was published under a mistaken impression. We are always ready to correct an injustice, but we require to be satisfied first that the thing complained of is an injustice. In this case, we elect to go to trial in a Court of Law.

The Tribune, which has certainly libelled more innocent men in the country than any other journal extant, except its worthy companion, the Sun, is frantic with delight over this wonderful suit of KILPATRICK'S, and, in a kind of ecstacy, cries out for "Twenty more" actions to be brought against us by next Saturday. Most men have seen by this time many evidences of the narrow mind and still narrower intelligence, combined with defective moral principle, which characterize the present deplorable management of the Tribune. It seems to be half afraid openly to defend KILPATRICK. All that we shall say on that point is, that we hope our readers will do us the justice to suspend their judgment for the present. By no means let them accept the statements and reports of the Herald, World, Sun, or Tribune—all papers which were bitterly opposed to us throughout our fight with Tammany, which then tried to discredit our courses in every conceivable way, which have ever since followed us with persistent abuse, and which hate us today rather more than ever, because they find us more obstinately than ever in their paths.

The Tribune is naturally rather more angry than its fellow-laborers, because a heavy blow was struck at its prestige last year; because we have this year drawn away from it many thousands of its old readers; and because most of Mr. GREELEY'S friends, in this City at least, are persons of notoriously disputable character, and therefore cannot stand public discussion. It says that we have "attacked" many persons. So we have, and we did it in the clear discharge of our duty to the public. We have attacked most of the scandalous combinations of corrupt politicians and adventurers who now surround Mr. GREELEY, and shall probably attack them again and again. We may take the liberty of saying that if we had not risked the inconveniences of denouncing these men a year ago, the City would still have been in the hands of TWEED and his fellow-thieves. Do the public recollect how the Tribune, Herald and other papers denounced us at that time for our "libels" upon TWEED and his friends? Do they remember how wildly it called upon HALL and SWEENY and CONNOLLY to bring actions for libel against us? We hope that the recollection of decent men in the community is still fresh on these points. We risked all at that time, and when the fight was over, the journals which had tried to trip us up claimed all the credit of the contest.

Now the Tammany and Greeley factions are once more enraged at us, and the Democratic manager of the Tribune implores them to bring a score of actions against us. Let them do it by all means. If we commit an injustice against any man we will honestly make amends for it; but we will not be bullied into withdrawing any charge which we have reason to suppose is well-founded. It is this device of bullying which the foolish Tribune people, and their political riff-raff, fancy can be successful now. Within the past week, a dozen letters have been sent to this office by Mr. GREELEY'S supporters, threatening violence, and half a dozen others menacing us with libel suits. Among the writers of the latter class is GEORGE N. SAUNDERS, to whom we say thus publicly, that we will not withdraw a single word we have said about him, and, therefore, the sooner he brings his action the better. We will prove him to have been a traitor and a rascal. The disreputable characters who are at work for GREELEY need not flatter themselves that they will deter us from exhibiting them to the public in their true light.

The plain fact is, that one of the vilest gangs ever seen in politics is now leagued together for the purpose of getting this City into their possession next November. We have broken down this same gang once, and they are very anxious to prevent us doing the same thing again. It will be necessary to attack them, and to attack them in a direct and personal manner. It is for the public interests that this should be done, and although the task is attended with some annoyances, we propose to apply ourselves earnestly to it. We do not intend to stand by silently, while the stone which we rolled up the hill last year is rolled down again by the Tweed and Greeley alliance. If we are to do our work thoroughly, we must mention names—we cannot succeed by talking against abstractions. The Tammany Ring would have been in existence today if we had only attacked it as a "Ring"—it was by denouncing the individual members of it by name that we accomplished so much toward its overthrow. So it is with the new combination between GREELEY and Tammany. We must expose the individual members of it, if we are to bring their guilt home to them; and we shall continue to do that, be the consequences what they may. We may be misunderstood and misrepresented now, but the day will come when the public will admit that we were right, and they will then do us justice, as they did after our first victory for the imperishable cause for which we have sincerely and honestly, if inadequately, contended.

Fizzing and Fizzes.

Both the Tribune and World gave currency yesterday to the stupid falsehood that a secret alliance exists between the Republican Committee and those degraded Tammany scoundrels, TWEED and CONNOLLY. The object imputed is that of aiding GRANT and hurting GREELEY, and the intermediaries and panders to the delicate union are pointed out in Mr. THOMAS MURPHY and Mr. Senator O'BRIEN. This spurious coin may as well at once be hailed to the counter. No such alliance exists, no such alliance is in contemplation, and no such alliance has ever been talked of—except by those of the adverse faction whose wish is father to the thought, and whose eagerness [illegible] say. Mr. [illegible] WALLACE, Mr. SWEENY, and so overwhelming is the sentiment in favor of GREELEY in his particular town, that some persons—the precise number is not mentioned, but we may suppose that there are at least two of them—"have signed a call to organize a Liberal Republican Club." After this, no reasonable man could doubt that New-Jersey would vote for GREELEY, and it was therefore unnecessary for Mr. SWAYNE to announce that "HENRY SIMPSON, one of the best wheelwrights that ever made a wagon," and "S. J. SLATER, equally prominent in the freighting business," have openly announced themselves as the followers of GREELEY and BROWN. One cannot altogether get rid of the suspicion that Mr. SWAYNE was aware of the fact that he was giving Messrs. SIMPSON and SLATER a free advertisement, and that the best wheelwright and the prominent freighting person are now chuckling over the simplicity of the Tribune in falling into so palpable a trap.

New-Jersey Politics.

The Fifth Congressional District, consisting of the Counties of Bergen, Passaic and Morris, and which includes in its population a large number of merchants, bankers, and others doing business in New-York, is believed, upon a pretty close count, to be sure for GRANT. The Republicans confidently expect to elect their Congressman; and so, by a general understanding in the district, Bergen County is this year to furnish the candidate, Mr. HILL, who has represented the district in Congress for three terms, and who lives in Morris, retires. In Bergen Mr. WM. WALTER PHELPS appears to be the most prominent candidate; he is well known and popular in the county, as well as in Passaic and Morris, and there is probably no doubt that he could carry the district by a larger majority than any other man mentioned. We notice that the Evening Post, while acknowledging that Mr. PHELPS is an able man, and likely to make a brilliant career if he should be sent to Congress, complains of him as being a protectionist. We suspect that, in the opinion of the majority of the voters in the Fifth Congressional District, this will not be a disqualification for Mr. PHELPS.

Seaside Delusions.

From East Hampton to Cape May, every mile of available sea-beach within easy reach of this City bears the footprints of the Summer lounger. The sterile sand has blossomed with a mushroom growth of black umbrellas, and hundreds of children are busily building lilliputian sand forts, which the next wave levels and smooths away. An innumerable company of men and women court the rough caresses of the surf, or search for shells and attain new installments of health and freckles. The sea-beach in August certainly presents a busy and interesting scene, but nevertheless it is the birthplace of delusions, defiant of reason, and peculiarly provocative of amusement and ridicule.

There is the delusion of the feminine bather that flannel in any shape and under any possible treatment can be made into a graceful and becoming bathing-dress. The toilet of the surf is the crucial test of beauty. While the really beautiful woman—she who is reading the present number of the TIMES—emerges from the surf a new and civilized Aphrodite, the bony bather becomes more sharply angular, and the too buxom belle more obtrusively expansive, when the frankness of clinging clothing has outlined with needless distinctness their physical peculiarities. Now, there is a material of which bathing-dresses can be made which shall be pleasing in texture and form, and which will make no indiscreet revelations. These dresses are familiar to Long Branch visitors, and are not infrequently seen among the fair Philadelphians at Cape May. Nevertheless, the vast majority of feminine bathers elsewhere along the Jersey and Long Island coasts still cling to the heresy of flannel. It is the peculiarity of flannel, that cut it and trim it as you will, it instantly develops its innate wickedness so soon as it meets the touch of the surf. Like the worst of objectionable small boys, it takes a manifest pleasure in openly proclaiming the weaknesses of those who have admitted it to their confidence. It becomes heavy, with water, and maliciously emphasizes every angle or superfluity of the wearer. By its fatal aid, she who has been selected by veteran connoisseurs as a "mon-sous fine woman" becomes forever associated in the masculine mind with the unesthetic bolster, while many a fond lover has discovered that the mistress whom he had adored as the most spiritualle of beauties is eminently earthly in the matter of pronounced clavicles and sharpened ribs. And yet the infatuation of flannel maintains its hold upon the feminine fancy, and the chivalrous admirer of women finds scores of animated flannelled arguments at the seaside, which strive to convince him that female beauty is a fable, to which the arts of the milliner have given an unwarranted currency.

The delusion of flannel is intimately associated with the kindred delusion that the more hideous the shape of the straw hat which the feminine bather wears, the more effectually it shades the face. No mere man will have the hardihood to attempt rashly into the mystery of bonnets—a subject which the best philosophers agree cannot be understood by the male intellect—or to suggest the particular pattern of hat best fitted for the gentle bather. That the high-crowned, broad-brimmed straw hat is a necessity, no man with the least romance for female beauty will admit, except under the torture of the rack, and that it may soon vanish forever from the seaside is the longing wish of all except the most bitter misogynists.

Of the less important delusions which prevail on the sea-beach, it is hardly necessary to speak. Merely to enumerate a few of them, the delusions of the umbrella, the sea-shell, and the pillow, may be mentioned. That a black umbrella is an admirable shelter-tent under which to lounge, when the bright sun is reflected from the sea and the sand, and when the thermometer has reached its highest attainable point, is an idea the British contributor of our own side visitor, and the most thorough demonstration of the uniformness of black as a defense from the sun would have no perceptible effect in dispelling so deep-rooted a delusion. Similarly, it would be useless to suggest to the eager collector of clam and mussel shells that, inasmuch as the thousands of persons who have annually collected these useless trophies have immediately thrown them away on reaching home, the work of gathering them is quite sure to be a waste of time, as well as a strain upon the spinal column. And, finally, to hint to the newly-married husband that he makes a ridiculous spectacle of himself when he persists in converting the newly-married wife into a peripatetic pillow whereon to lay his head in the publicity of a thronged sea-beach, would be worse than useless, since it would be construed by all newly-married persons into a brutal sneer at the finest feelings of the newly-married heart.

Popular delusions die hard. Years will probably elapse before the flannel dress, the black umbrella, and the hideous hat become but dark memories of the past. Still, the world moves, and in the fore-of-future we shall doubtless find the delusions of the sea-beach as obsolete as faith in witchcraft, and the belief in ghouls and wehrwolves, have long since become.

The Latest Cuban Outrage.

It often seems as if there were some moral infection in the very atmosphere of Cuba, which so acted on those brought under its influence as to change their entire natures, thus rendering possible deeds of sickening brutality and inhuman cruelty. How otherwise can we account for the fact that the Spanish officials who have been sent over by the Home Government have been, with rare exceptions, the actors or abettors of most of the numberless outrages which during the past four years it has been our painful duty to record? It cannot be that the Spanish Ministry invariably selects the worst men in the kingdom as its agents in its colony; yet, judging from results, it would appear as if utter absence of pity or remorse were the highest possible qualifications of a Cuban official; certainly the course followed by them after assuming authority, if it were enforced at home, even in such rebellious provinces as Andalusia and Catalonia, would raise a cry of indignation and horror from one end of the country to the other. What is it that so changes these men that, once released from the bonds of home associations, they rush into an excess of barbarity so monstrous that no word seems strong enough to describe it?

There are numerous instances that we might give to prove how terribly true these statements are, but we shall take but one, the account of which has just reached us by late advices from Havana, and which may be found in detail in the letter of our correspondent in another column. In what are known as the "Fosses," in Havana, nine hundred Chinese coolies were confined a few days since, the majority of them waiting for an opportunity to return to China, having fulfilled their contract, and served six weary years on the various sugar plantations. In defiance of any semblance of justice, over four hundred of these poor men—to whom, from race instincts, the love of home is stronger than in any other people on earth—were forcibly taken out and sold to different planters to serve as slaves for another term of six years. When one takes into consideration the sufferings which these unfortunate wretches have to endure; the exacting nature of their occupation, especially during the season in which the sugar is made; the large percentage of them that annually die from malarious diseases incurred by their work,—the enormity of the crime that has condemned them to this fate becomes startlingly apparent. In this, as in other cases, the author of all this misery is a Spanish official, high in authority—the Political Governor of Havana—who, having received his papers of recall, like that cunning steward in the Scripture, considered it necessary to make some preparations for the future, and thus for his own comfort sacrificed the lives and happiness of hundreds of his fellow-beings.

It is needless to make any commentary upon this affair, for the facts speak for themselves. Had there been any conception of what constitutes honor and good faith in the minds of those having authority in Havana, such a proceeding would have been simply impossible. It will be well for the present Government at Madrid to look carefully into the story; the loss from knavish rulers and badly-administered laws will in the end be theirs, for those who entertain the most kindly feelings toward Spain cannot but be indignant if such an outrage is allowed to pass unnoticed.

MINOR TOPICS.

Misery makes a man acquainted with strange bed-fellows, and so, sometimes, does a residence in Cheyne Walk, Chelsea, which is also by the long-time home of Mr. THOMAS CARLYLE. A gentleman who lives there, who can hardly be a true descendant of Eve, has all immense passion for snakes. The creatures occasionally develop a taste for travel, and a neighbor recently awoke and found, to his horror, a fine large specimen in bed with him. An action at law has followed this strange occurrence, the snake fancier having been sued by Mr. COCKBURN, by way of bill in Chancery, to compel him to take further precautions to restrain his pets from wandering at large. The delicacy of a region frequented by wandering serpents must be unique, especially to the timid and imaginative, and Cheyne Walk doubtless rejoices in the fact that Vice-Chancellor BACON has favored the plaintiff's application.

An entertainment was given on the Albert Hall Lodge, on July 18, of curious interest and instructiveness. It consisted of a lecture, by Mr. WILLIAM FRESCOT, on "The Wonders of Photographic Science." The hall was lighted from the centre by an electric light, and there were twenty tables with apparatus connecting with telegraph lines ranged round the walls of the hall. During the lecture, messages were received from Paris, Vienna, Rome, and other places, being so Telegram, Frank-in Telegraph Office, operating in Paris; Sutro, Brussels, operated by Scott." A complimentary message was likewise received, addressed to the Prince of WALES by the Foreign Minister, in response to one sent from the Hall. The evening is described as most amusing as well as instructive. A full explanation of the philosophy of telegraphy accompanied the experiments, and we should be glad to have so valuable a kind of lecture delivered in New-York. It would certainly excite much attention.

Mr. SPURGEON is stated to have been considerably aggravated by a "printer's error," which has jumped—except is not the word for it—into his particular literary organ, the Sword and Trowel, known by the irreverent initiation as "the trade" as The Sow and Trowel. Among the secular advertisements in this pious print is one referring as follows to the reverend nonconformist's sermons:

"Metropolitan Tabernacle Pulpit, containing C. H. SPURGEON'S sermons—The publishers call attention to the remarkable fact that they have now issued Mr. SPURGEON'S sermons weekly for more than sixteen years, and that all the time the circulation has not only been very large, but has steadily increased. This unprecedented fact, unprecedented in the pulpit of language or Church, speaks for itself, and is a stronger testimony than the most friendly puffs could possibly represent. It is also noteworthy that no weekly warm reception has been given to the American edition, and that the Dutch, German, Swedish, translations have met with equally warm reception, and the sermons have been favorably received in Welsh, Danish and Italian."

The advertiser's disquiet may be considerable when there followed, without any break except a colon, after "Italian" in the sentence just quoted the words:

"Entirely and effectually cures scurvy, ringworm, itch, redness, pimples, blotches, eruptions, eczema and every form of skin disease, also, wounds and ulcers, with absolute and unfailing certainty."

An Irish paper last year by a similar transposition gave the dress of the bridesmaids to the Archbishop officiating at a fashionable wedding. "His Grace was attired in white tarlatan," &c.

It was lately announced that the immense emigration of North German subjects was again a source of anxiety to the Imperial Chancellor, which was contemplating the hazardous step of adopting means to check it. Some little light on these apprehensions is shed by the statement that it will take five years to bring the immense works at Strasburg to completion, and that there is already a scarcity of laborers, although the men are paid from twenty-five cents to eighty cents a day, and lodged gratis, while beer is cheap and good. We hear so much of French losses by the war, that we forget to take adequately into account those of the other side, which, with the ever increasing depletion by emigration, are no doubt beginning to tell very seriously. Living in Prussia is rapidly rising in price, and the days of Berlin's cheapness are over, never, probably, to return.

It has been customary in some parts of the South and West, we believe, to adjourn Court upon the arrival of a circus. They found out at Terre Haute the other day that it was not entirely prudent for banks to follow the alluring example. A circus procession passed the Prairie City Bank, with the usual splendor of gilded chariots and fanfare of trumpets, and straightway all the officers of the institution went forth to see. They returned to find that a little side-show had been enacted for their benefit by some enterprising thief, who had effected the mysterious disappearance of about six thousand dollars of the bank's funds. It is probable that the next circus which passes through Terre Haute will matter to war financial gentlemen among its admirers.

In some of the Irish Courts there is a curious custom of presenting to the Judge who opens the Assizes a pair of white gloves, whenever the criminal docket is empty. The usage may be intended as a facetious intimation to the Judge that there is no one to come before him whom he must handle without gloves. The last recipient of this unique gift was Mr. Justice FITZGERALD, and the place of all places where the ceremony was held was Kilkenny. Either the terrific and historic battle for which that storied town is celebrated enhances all its gubernatory, or it has easily degenerate in these days from the old-time spirit. How long will it be, we wonder, before Mr. Justice KEOGH is presented with a pair of white gloves on his circuit?

Letter From Ex-Attorney-General Akerman.

The Chattanooga (Tenn.) Herald publishes a long letter from Hon. AMOS T. AKERMAN, in relation to the Presidential election, which closes as follows: "The most serious view of the election is this: Some parts of our Southern country have been afflicted with lawlessness of peculiar violence and atrocity, the product of war, sudden poverty, and political derangement. This is the weakness, the bane, of the South. It disturns society, scares our capital and immigrants, renders the laboring class uneasy, drives away good citizens, and discourages enterprise. From known causes this inertia has been aggravated, which, in current politics. Owing to the action of the Government of the United States it is now checked; but it is not yet extirpated. Should Grant be re-elected, the offenders will cease to hope for impunity in crime, and will begin themselves to better ways, or, if not, be restrained. Should Greeley be elected, they will feel that their side has triumphed, and, in the intoxication of victory, will break out in violence, the forces from long restraint. No matter how earnestly Mr. Greeley might exert himself to suppress them, it would be long before he could put them where Grant has them now. The needliest way to give Government immunity to the Southern malcontent Gen. Grant."

Democratic Testimony to a Republican Nominee.

The Titusville (Penn.) Courier, a Democratic journal, speaks thus of the Republican candidate for Congress in the district: "The Republican conference of the Twentieth District could not have made a better nomination for Congress than that of H. L. Richmond, Esq., of Meadville. Against the capacity or honesty of the candidate nominated by the Republicans not a word can be said. Our opposition to him is based altogether upon his party allegiance. The first thing to be done is for the Liberal Republicans and Democrats to put forth a man who shall in every particular be as unexceptionable as the candidate nominated by the Republicans. In this line their only hope of success."

The Progress of Chaos.

In Cleveland, Ohio, the campaign was commenced with all three of the German papers at least faithfully for Greeley. Now, however, the Anzeiger has become a Grant and Wilson advocate; the Germania prophesies victory to Grant and Brown, and only the Wecker continues adhesion to the Cincinnati party. How long it will continue on the present course is uncertain, inasmuch as it is stated that "the Schurz and Brown cash made the Wecker a mere tool when that has taken it.

GEN. KILPATRICK AND THE TRIBUNE.

The charge of libel which has been preferred against the Tribune by Gen. Judson Kilpatrick, and which was yesterday brought before Justice Hogan, at the Tombs Police Court, is, in all respects, a curious proceeding. The paragraph on which the libel suit is founded was copied by the Tribune from another paper—a fact which we mention merely to show our responsibility for what we have published. There is nothing new in the paragraph, for the charge has been repeated over and over again during the past three years. It was brought forward with great minuteness by the World. If Gen. Kilpatrick had been moved by a sincere desire to justify himself in the eyes of the public, it might have been supposed that he would have come to the Tribune office to make a personal explanation, and demand some reparation for the supposed injustice done him. But in this case nothing of the kind was done; the first notice that any one connected with the Tribune had of the matter was the appearance of a messenger from Justice Hogan, requesting Mr. Jennings to attend in his Court at 11 the following morning. A libel suit is almost always a civil suit; but in this case, and for purposes that will be apparent to every one, a criminal suit was commenced in order that the Greeley papers might be enabled to tell a thrilling story the next morning about an "arrest," startling messages were sent all over the country, and Gen. Kilpatrick was to be rendered fit to fulminate his opposition against Tribune a part of the Greeley campaign, from which so much is anticipated. When the case came up yesterday, the complainant was absent from the City, although he must have known when he began the suit that he would be needed. His counsel, Mr. Shaffer, made a statement in his argument which has not the slightest foundation in fact, although, doubtless, Mr. Shaffer spoke in good faith. Mr. Raymond never vindicated Gen. Kilpatrick's course in South America, and never withdrew the above charge, nor has any vindication of Kilpatrick from the accusation ever appeared in the Tribune.

The following is a report of the proceedings in the case:

On Wednesday afternoon Gen. Hugh Judson Kilpatrick appeared before Justice Edward Hogan at the Tombs Police Court, and applied to the Magistrate for a warrant for the arrest of Mr. Louis J. Jennings, of the Tribune, on a charge of libel. The General appeared to be very much chagrined at a paragraph which was published in the Tribune of the 27th ult., and upon the publication of this paragraph the charge of libel was based. Kilpatrick was loud in his threats of what he would do to punish the gentleman complained of.

The following affidavit was presented, and was signed and sworn to by the complainant:

POLICE COURT—FIRST DISTRICT—STATE OF NEW-YORK, CITY AND COUNTY OF NEW-YORK, ss.—Hugh Judson Kilpatrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says, that on the 27th day of July, 1872, at the City and County of New-York, one Louis J. Jennings did unlawfully, scandalously and maliciously compose and publish, and cause and procure to be composed and published, in a certain newspaper printed and published by him, in the City and County aforesaid, a certain false, scandalous, malicious and defamatory libel of and concerning this deponent, in the words following, viz.:

"Judson Kilpatrick, New-Jersey formerly Minister to Chili, tried to force his shameless woman into Chilean society, and was resented. Has long been a leader of the Democratic party, and his New-Jersey gang now is the Democratic party."

Deponent further says that he is the person of that name who was formerly Minister of the United States to Chili, and that the said false, defamatory libel refers to, and was intended by said Jennings to affect injuriously the private character of said deponent, and that the said libellous statement is in all respects false and untrue, and without any foundation whatever in fact.

Deponent further says that the aforesaid copy of the said newspaper called the NEW-YORK TIMES, contains the said false, defamatory, and malicious libel, and that the said libel was on the day aforesaid, to wit, on the 27th day of July, 1872, maliciously published by the said Louis J. Jennings, with intent to injure and defame the good name and fame of said deponent.

Wherefore deponent prays that the said Louis J. Jennings may be arrested and dealt with as the law directs. H. J. KILPATRICK.

Sworn to before me this 31st day of July, 1872. E. HOGAN, Police Justice.

It was evidently the intention of Kilpatrick and his Greeley associates to have Mr. Jennings arrested after the Court had closed, and detained all night, so as to cause him all the annoyance and inconvenience possible. This course had also been anticipated by Dana and others of his class. "Sensation" reports were produced for all the Greeley papers, in anticipation of this result. The design, however, was rendered futile by the courtesy and good sense of Justice Hogan. The Magistrate, instead of subjecting the defendant to the indignity of an arrest, arraigned Sergt. John J. Quinn, of the Court Squad, to notify Mr. Jennings to appear at Court yesterday for examination. The Sergeant performed his duty with a great deal of courtesy, and there was no arrest whatever, nor were any prisoners seen served. The story of an arrest was, however, published by Dana and is relied on to know whether he has not rendered himself liable to a prosecution for the offenses.

As soon as the facts in the case became known, a great many prominent gentlemen called at the Tribune office and offered their services to Mr. Jennings, to enter any amount of bail that might be required; but, as the sequel will show, their kindly volunteered offers were not needed.

Promptly at 11 A. M. yesterday, Mr. Jennings appeared for examination at the Tombs. He was accompanied by Hon. E. D. Morgan, of Auburn, N. Y., one of the principal proprietors of the Times; Mr. Henry Clews, the well-known banker; Mr. Jackson S. Schultz, and several other prominent merchants and business men. Ex-Judge Hoffman, Ex-Judge Van Vorst appeared as counsel for the defendant. Kilpatrick, the complainant, did not put in an appearance. His object was merely been to enable the Greeley papers to state that an editor of the Times had been "arrested"—a part of the political machinery of the Greeley canvass.

After Justice Hogan had taken his seat on the bench, Mr. Chauncey Shaffer rose and stated he appeared for the prosecution in the place of District-Attorney Pellows, who had been summoned to Saratoga to attend at the Impeachment Court.

MR. VAN VORST—Your Honor, the defendant is here in person, and I appear as his counsel.

Mr. SHAFFER—These charges have to be met and investigated. Either they are true or they are not true. If they are true I would not allow Gen. Kilpatrick to enter my house with a woman whom I knew her to be his wife. The complainant is entitled to the benefit of a full investigation. This same charge was made four years ago. Gen. Kilpatrick earned a reputation during the war and he is now a public man, and if the truth of these charges is developed he cannot be endorsed as a public man. I would also say that the complainant has not the slightest resentment feeling in the matter, but demands a full investigation. I request that this matter be delayed until next Monday, and in the meantime the defendant can put in bail for his appearance.

MR. VAN VORST—Then I understand that the complainant is not here?

Mr. SHAFFER—No; he is not here. His friends advised him to go to Harrisonburg, Va., where he is to address a State Convention.

Mr. VAN VORST—As the complainant is not here, I suppose that we cannot have an examination today. We admit that the charges were published, and we are only here prepared to give good and sufficient sureties to appear at the general Sessions and answer any charge which may come to grand jury against us. We offer as bail Mr. Henry Clews, Mr. Jackson S. Schultz, Col. E. D. Morgan, and other gentlemen of great wealth and standing.

Justice HOGAN—Do I understand that you waive examination?

Mr. VAN VORST—Yes, your Honor, we waive examination, and are ready to give bail in any amount your Honor may fix.

Justice HOGAN—I do not desire any bail in this case. I am satisfied that Mr. Jennings will appear to answer any indictment that may be found against him. He is entitled to a trial, and the papers will be sent to the District-Attorney's office.

This concluded the proceedings, and Mr. Jennings left the examination-room surrounded by his friends. In the course of the day a large number of subscribers and others, who had seen the paragraph, called at the Tribune office, and were kind enough to give assurances of their confidence in the paragraph, and to express their readiness to do any service they could.

THE FIFTEENTH AMENDMENT.

Celebration of the Anniversary of its Passage by the Colored People at Hudson.

From Our Own Correspondent.

HUDSON, Thursday, Aug. 1, 1872.

The colored people of the Hudson River counties assembled here, today, to celebrate the anniversary of the passage of the Fifteenth Amendment. All day long they arrived by boats and cars, the steam-boat Newcomb bringing 500 from New-York, Poughkeepsie, Rondout and Catskill. This afternoon they gathered together in Court-house-square, where an open-air meeting was held. The proceedings were opened by Rev. Mr. Butler, of New-York, making an eloquent prayer. He prayed that, whatever the result of the coming election might be, the colored people would be the gainers thereby.

Garrett H. Dero, Hudson, nominated Mr. Eich, of Troy, as President, which was done unanimous. Mr. Eich is a fine-looking colored man, somewhat advanced in years and has a high intellectual forehead.

After thanking the people for the honor conferred upon him, he introduced Mr. Johnson, of Albany. The latter gentleman made a fine address. He referred to the condition of the colored race twelve years ago, and said that then the situation was dark for the colored race, but light came at last. The late rebellion, though unfortunate, was necessary, and the black man's part in it was full of honor. From it the slave rose, first to the dignity of a contraband, and then to the position of an American citizen. Having occasion to mention Grant's name, the speaker was immediately interrupted by a wild applause, when Mr. Johnson, after silence was restored, said that the new-made American citizens would swell the vote for U. S. Grant tenfold. It will, said he, be the first time that the negroes ever voted for a President, and they would vote right. He said that Greeley had taken from his mouth a sweet morsel, and so an honest man had fallen. The letter of Mr. Sumner was sweet and had pleasant sound, for Greeley Democrats, but on the 6th of November it will be written that Grant is again President and Wilson his supporter, and that dear Charles has gone on a trip up the Red River. He won't even have a Democratic Party to keep him company. Any Democrat who votes for Greeley is a Democrat still, and the speaker would not keep them company. This remark brought out tremendous cheering.

All day long the colored people have roamed about the streets, enjoying themselves in various ways, and all have been orderly and well behaved. I have talked with many of them, and have not heard one word in favor of Horace Greeley.

Mr. Johnson has publicly and privately denounced Charles Sumner as an enemy to the colored race; and his opinion is indorsed by all who heard him. He charged today in his speech that Charles Sumner did not vote for the Fifteenth Amendment, but worked to kill it. He denounced Horace Greeley's speech at Poughkeepsie. He said Mr. Greeley's charge there that the colored people are lazy will cost the colored race; and he asserted that Mr. Greeley told the colored folks at Poughkeepsie that if white people objected, they had no right to be buried in the same church-yard or go to the same school with white folks, and that negro equality was barely possible. In making these remarks the speaker in a manner was cruelly earnest, and he was frequently interrupted by applause. Never was there is to be more speaking in the City Hall.

I am told that Mr. Johnson held a good position in the Legislature last Winter, and that he is widely known and respected. Every time President Grant's name was mentioned there was loud and prolonged applause. In and about Court-house-square large numbers of white males and females were noticeable, who listened with close attention to the speakers.

The Newcomb left here at 5:40 P. M. for down the river. There was a fine band of music on board. The entire day's proceedings will wind up with a colored ball.

SUMNER'S TREACHERY.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

TITUSVILLE, Penn., Aug. 1.—A meeting of the Grant and Wilson Club of colored citizens of this city was held last evening at Good Templars' Hall, in Martin-street, and was very largely attended. Mr. T. A. Thompson presided and Mr. P. T. Colding was Secretary. Mr. Thompson delivered an address, which was frequently applauded. The mention of Grant's name was received with immense enthusiasm. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

That we have hitherto recognized in Charles Sumner a friend of the colored race in this country, but his recent course does not command our respect. We disavow any alliance with the Democratic Party of the South and North, who have always resisted the principles and measures of the Republican Party, which secure us our emancipation, civil rights, and our political freedom.

That we believe the hostility of Mr. Sumner to the Grant administration originates against President Grant, and that it is well known that before he was to act with the Republican Party, and that Grant has been our true friend and defender during his Administration, which has been our main dependence and shield against the rebellious South, as this country knows full well.

That we approve the course and will follow the advice of our immediate friend and champion, William Lloyd Garrison, Frederick Douglass and Gerrit Smith, whose devotion to our rights cannot be questioned.

A Mystery at Guttenberg—A Supposed Murder.

The body of an unknown man, apparently a German, was found yesterday morning floating in the river at the Guttenberg docks, above Weehawken. The body had been only a short time in the water, and death had doubtless resulted from a pistol-shot, and not from drowning. The ball had entered the lower part of the cheek and passed through the roof of the mouth, the brain, and out at the top of the skull. There was no marks of violence on the face, so, no much doubt but that deceased had killed himself. A revolver was found under the left breast of his coat, where the right hand might have fallen, and the hand was blackened with powder as if from an explosion. Deceased was well dressed, and appeared about fifty years old. There was nothing discovered by which the body could be identified. Samuel Buttenfish, a saloon-keeper at Guttenberg, recognized it as that of a man who had been twice or three times in his saloon. He had acted strangely, as if partially insane, and remained a long time in the saloon at a time if having nothing to do. On being questioned he did not seem very communicative, but represented himself as the keeper of a shooting gallery in New-York, though in what part of the City he did not say. He last was in the saloon on Wednesday, so that the accident, suicide, or murder, must have occurred on Wednesday night. The case has been placed in the hands of County Physician Buck, who will investigate the affair.

The Newark Straw Bail Case.

Thomas B. Jacks, Robert McNichol, and Mary and Augusta Harris, all of New-York, were yesterday arraigned before Justice Lambert, at Newark, to answer the charge of attempting to defraud Messrs. Smith & Steeple, of that city, by persuading them to furnish $14,000 bail for Hirsch, the Kremenets robber, and giving as security a fraudulent mortgage on a house in Madison-street, New-York. The gentlemen who were to furnish the bail discovered that the mortgagors did not own the property which they proposed to mortgage, and had thus furnished straw bail frequently before. They were allowed to go home the Court at Newark and thoroughly entrap themselves, and were yesterday fully committed for trial. It is asserted that Jacks and McNichol have by this same method turned bail, at one time or another, to $60,000 in straw bail.

Killed on the Rail.

An unknown man was struck and instantly killed by the locomotive of the 4 o'clock train from New-York, yesterday morning, near Rahway. The man, who, from his dress, was apparently a tramp, was walking upon the track, and though the whistle was repeatedly sounded, did not seem to hear it. The body, which was horribly mangled, was removed to Rahway, and delivered to Coroner Jackson, who will hold an inquest.

The German Teachers' Association.

The third annual Convention of the German teachers of the United States, now in session at the German club-room at Sixth and Hudson-streets, Hoboken, has elected a permanent organization by the election of Mr. P. Stahl, of New-York, President, and Mr. Gebhardt, of Hoboken, Secretary. Delegates are present from every state, but two States, apparently all the delegates each of Cleveland, Cincinnati, Philadelphia and Toledo, where there is a large German population. The exercises, partly in German and partly in English, consist principally of essays and addresses on various educational topics. Today and to-morrow, the last days of this year's Convention, a large increase in the number of delegates from a distance is expected, and the exercises will be of some more importance than usual.

BASE-BALL.

Exciting Contest Between the Mutuals and Atlantics—The Former Win by 5 to 4.

Now that a victory over the Atlantics has ceased to be a "sure thing" for any club, their game with the Mutuals yesterday was eagerly looked forward to, and the scenes on the Union Ground resembled those of former days, when no greater rivals were found in the ball field than New-York and Brooklyn. From the outset, both clubs played in a sharp, determined style, the only errors on the Mutual's side being a wild throw by Hatfield, which gave to the Atlantics the runs they made in the second inning. Seven innings were finished within an hour, the score being then in favor of the Atlantics by 3 to 1; but in the eighth three earned runs added by the Mutuals and one by their opponents, brought the score level, and in the ninth, a hit by Eggler and Hatfield's error to the Mutuals the winning run. The game was splendidly played by both nines. Beavens, Dehlman and Berdeck excelling on one side, and Hicks, Boyd and Fulmer on the other, although every position was admirably filled.

POLICEMEN AS CLUBBERS.

Trials Before the Police Commissioners—The Case of Bensalman Neely—A Prisoner Badly Beaten in the Fourth Ward.

Two important cases of delinquent policemen came up for trial before the Board of Police Commissioners, yesterday. The first case was that of Patrolman John Kiernan, of the Fourth Precinct, charged with having brutally beaten Patrick Murphy, a painter, of No. 36 Bayard-street. Of late, in the Fourth Precinct, robbery and fighting have been rampant, and disreputable actions on the part of officers a frequent occurrence. The present case was severely commented on by the Press at the time of its occurrence. Mr. Murphy, on being sworn, said that he was standing in front of his place of business, No. 17 North William-street, with some other printers, when Kiernan came along, caught him by the collar and said, "Get away from here." The witness said, "Why, I work here, and am attending to my business." "I want you away from here, anyhow," said Kiernan, knocking him down with his club, and striking him several times. This evidence was corroborated by Mr. Osborn, foreman of the printing office, who, in endeavoring to save Murphy from being beaten to death, was also assaulted by Kiernan. Several other respectable witnesses swore to the same states of facts. Kiernan swore that Murphy was the disturbance and he asked the men to get away, and they would not. On his repeating the request, Murphy caught him by his collar and struck with fists. He said the club solely in defending himself. The case was referred to the full Board.

The other case was that of Patrolman Van Kanss, of the Thirteenth Precinct, charged with having clubbed his superior officer, Roundsman Patrick Molly. Molly swore that he searched Van Kanss's post for him; Van Kanss said he could not find him; he saw him in a back yard; he (Molly) was drunk and had found him before. Van Kanss said, "It's not curious at all," and knocked him down by a blow from his club. He struck him several times. Van Kanss swore that on his telling Molly he had been on post, Molly called him a ——liar and struck him with his club; he struck back in self-defense at Molly. The evidence of Van Kanss was corroborated by Peter Kolyen, an undertaker, John Lowery, a bar-tender; Mrs. Bridget Conners, of No. 122 Broome-street, and several other witnesses. Thirapane was also referred.

Roaring Revelry in the Bowery.

Mr. H. Lisner, proprietor of the dry-goods store No. 308 Bowery, and who resides near his business establishment, left his house on Wednesday night about 10 o'clock and took his family to a ball in Germania Assembly Rooms. They did not return home until 5 o'clock Wednesday morning, when Mr. Lisner found that his store had been entered by burglars and robbed of silk worth $2,000. The thieves went through a back yard, a tenement house in Elizabeth-street, and climbed upon a shed, the roof of which abuts on the rear of No. 308 Bowery, at the second-story window. The window was secured on the outside by iron bars, which the burglars bent and twisted all out of shape, and so effected an entrance into the building. The store was ransacked, and it would appear the thieves must have watched the Policeman on post in the Bowery, add during his absence on the far end of his beat hastily secured their plunder and retreated rapidly by the way they came.

The Erie Fire—Continuation of the Investigation by the Jersey City Fire Commissioners.

The Jersey City Fire Commissioners yesterday continued the investigation into the cause of the death of James W. McCarthy, the engineer killed at the Erie fire, on the 24th ult. A number of witnesses were examined, some of them shaking the position assumed to McCarthy dangerous, and some not, but nothing of importance was elicited. Henry C. Hutton and Peter Dayne, referred to as the authority for the statements made by Mr. O'Brien against the Chief Engineer, denied ever having said that they believed him responsible for the engineer's death. The investigation was adjourned until Tuesday next, when further testimony will be taken.

The Jersey City Police Commissioners.

The Jersey City Board of Police Commissioners yesterday morning held a special meeting for the purpose of auditing the pay-roll. The roll for the latter half of July, amounting to $7,807.15, was reported correct, and warrants ordered drawn for that amount in favor of the Police and Health Departments. It is not yet known whether, under the circumstances, Mayor O'Neill will sign the warrants or not, as a new Board has been appointed by the Governor, but it is generally believed that for the present, in order not to interfere with the efficiency of the force, he will do so.

The Coldwell Mystery.

The manner of the death of Henry Kohlman, whose body was found in the woods on Gen. Woodhull's farm, near Manalapan, on Saturday, is still a mystery. All, when it be the authorities, who are the communicative, but who claim, as was stated on Monday, to have some information of importance. The jury held a second session on Wednesday evening, and several witnesses were examined. Beyond this nothing is known, as they decided it advisable to sit with closed doors and keep secret any information they may have obtained.

THE APOLLO HALL DEMOCRACY.

An Effort Made by Mr. Wickham, the Chairman, to Reduce the Tammany Ticket—The Matter Referred to the Executive Committee.

Wednesday night a meeting of the Apollo Hall Executive Committee was held, at Apollo Hall for the purpose of attending to ordinary routine business, and it was also the intention of the Chairman, Mr. W. H. Wickham, to lay before the Committee a communication from the Tammany General Committee, of which the following is a copy:

TAMMANY HALL GENERAL COMMITTEE, July 31, 1872.

DEAR SIR: At a meeting of the General Committee of Tammany Hall, on Saturday, July 27, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That a Committee of One from each Assembly District be appointed to confer with a committee of the Apollo Hall Democracy, to be held at such time and place in this City as the Committee may determine, to ratify the nomination made at Baltimore, and that said Committee be empowered to confer with all other political organizations in this City favorable to the object of this resolution.

In pursuance of said resolution, the Chairman appointed a Committee, who met on July 29, 1872, and elected the undersigned the Chairman and Secretaries of said Subcommittee. The following resolution was then adopted by the subcommittee:

Resolved, That a copy of this Committee be sent, for with other associations favorable to the nominations of the Baltimore Democratic Convention, with a view to a joint conference on the subject of such nominations, and that a report be made to the next meeting of this Committee.

Acting under the foregoing resolution, we have the honor to ask a committee of your organization to confer and cooperate with the undersigned, on the premises, and to adopt such measures as to insure the fullest and best fruit of the movement by the people of the City of New-York of the nominations of Horace Greeley and B. Gratz Brown.

The good sense and loyalty your members in the premises at an early day, will be a blessing to country, and then be recognized, of which you will be duly notified. Respectfully yours,

JOHN KELLY, Chairman,
JAMES BRUCE, Secretaries.

For William H. Wickham, Chairman Apollo Hall Democracy.

Word having been sent to Senator James O'Brien, who was enjoying himself at Saratoga, of the intended action of the Apollo Hall Committee, of which he is a member, he immediately started for New-York and attended the meeting. The meeting was assembled at the usual hour, and right here comes the first conflicting statement. The Committee consists of about 210 members. One party says that out of this number not more than 100 members were present, the remainder consisting, it is said, of outsiders. Another party says that nearly every member of the Committee was present, and that the quota of outsiders was very small. Be that as it may, the meeting unmistakably showed its hostility to Tammany Hall.

When Mr. Wickham, the Chairman, proposed to read the communication from Tammany Hall, Senator O'Brien strongly objected, and he was supported firmly by the great majority of those present. The Chairman had to submit, and the meeting broke up without indorsing Horace.

It seeing desirable to obtain the fullest information in relation to the general feeling that exists among the members, we decided to visit the office of a TIMES reporter called, yesterday, to see some of the more prominent actors in the scene.

Having found that Senator O'Brien had returned to Saratoga, the reporter called upon Mr. George Bartholomew for his views on the matter. Mr. Bartholomew said:

"The general feeling of the Committee was, I think, that no communication should be received from Tammany Hall, the members believing that the Reform movement which swept over the City last Fall was sufficient to place the Tammany organization beneath notice by Reformers. They also honestly thought that Tammany Hall had taken position to come into the game of a partial peace until election day, and then a sell-out, trusting to chance to have another peace negotiation before and another sell-out at the following election.

"The greater portion of the persons present said that the members of the Committee."

"Do you think that another attempt will be made to have that communication considered and acted upon by the Apollo Hall Executive Committee?"

"I do not. The motion of Judge Spaulding that any communication purporting to come from Tammany Hall, or any member thereof, be neither received nor filed, was carried by a tumultuous yea. Some parliamentary and the unanimous voice of the Committee showed that they did not desire any negotiations with that body."

The next member found was Hon. Peter Mitchell. He said: "I know nothing of such action. The meeting of the delegation was run through the Fifth Assembly District. We went to Apollo Hall, and the meeting was called to order by Mr. Wickham, Chairman. There was a full attendance of the Executive Committee, whose faces were nearly all familiar to me as members of that Committee. After the meeting was called to order, the calling of the roll having been dispensed with, the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Mr. Wickham addressed the meeting, stating that he believed the time had arrived for the Committee to take some action in relation to the Presidential question. That he had received a communication that morning, which he desired to present now to the meeting, and commenced reading the communication. Senator O'Brien arose, and moved that the further reading of that communication be dispensed with. Mr. Wickham decided him out of order. The Senator appealed from the decision of the Chair. The Senator then spoke on the impropriety of receiving any communication or taking any action on the Presidential question by that body at present, and stated that he had learned that the Chairman, Mr. Wickham, had been in consultation with certain leaders of Tammany Hall, and that he (Mr. Wickham) was trying to have the Apollo Hall organization indorse the Tammany Hall candidate, Horace Greeley. That he, Senator O'Brien, was a Democrat, and that he was opposed to any alliance with Tammany Hall. That Apollo Hall Democracy was the only true Democracy in this country, and that the Democratic party would sustain it at the next election, and that he predicted the defeat of every candidate nominated by Tammany Hall at the next election, and for one speaking as a Democrat he was weaker in Democratic principles than ever. He insisted on the Chair putting the appeal, when I arose to a point of order for the purpose of shutting off all debate and coming to a vote. I was quite well informed of the rule in the Congress of the United States; also, in the Legislature in the State of New-York, and in all parliamentary bodies, that, when the decision of the Chair was appealed from, the question shall be put, 'Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House?' and then the Chair, I was compelled to put the question. The Chair then informed me that I was right, and that the point of order was well taken, and decided to dispense with the further reading of the paper."

In relation to the resignation of Mr. Wickham, he stated that inasmuch as the members had lost confidence in his motives, he deemed it his duty to tender his resignation to that body. He called Judge Hogan to the chair, and did so tender his resignation to the temporary Chairman. The question was then taken on the acceptance of the resignation, and it was carried. Mr. Wickham lay the whole subject on the table, which was unanimously carried. A motion was then made by Ex-Corporation Clerk Lyons to go into an election for a Chairman. I raised the point of order that there was no vacancy, and therefore they could not go into the election of a Chairman. I then moved to adjourn, which was carried.

"I for one know what Senator O'Brien's intentions were when he came from Saratoga for the express purpose of attending this meeting!"

"I know nothing of the intentions of Senator O'Brien other than that which he has publicly stated. He is fully competent to speak for himself. It seemed to be the sentiment of nine out of every ten present that the action of the communication with Tammany Hall. The members seemed to feel that they had been denied a recognition by the Rochester State Convention, held for the purpose of selecting delegates to the National Democratic Convention at Baltimore, and to select a candidate for President, and that, therefore, our organization was purely a local one, and that we should refrain at present from taking any action in national politics, and preserve our organization for the purpose of carrying out other reforms in municipal affairs, and by taking this position that all good and honest citizens would assist us in our worthy efforts."

"Was the meeting in sympathy with the nomination of Mr. Greeley?"

"My impression is that it was not in the slightest degree, because they looked upon him as the idol of Tammany, or, whose coat-tail the Ring was going to remain their last power."

"Why do you think so?"

"Because every supporter of the last Tammany thieves is believing for Horace Greeley."

This closed the interview with Mr. Mitchell, who made his statements in the fullest and frank manner.

The next gentleman called upon was Mr. W. H. Wickham, Chairman of the Apollo Hall Executive Committee, and although the interview was very brief, there was sufficient said to convey the impression—to draw it mild—that his views were diametrically opposed to those of Mr. Mitchell, if not of Mr. Bartholomew. After stating the purpose of the visit, the following question was asked:

"What was the real feeling of the meeting!"

"The real feeling of the members was to insure the Democratic nominees at Baltimore. There was a large attendance of outsiders, who were brought there for the purpose of preventing any business from being done. The presentation of the communication would have been virtually to indorse Horace Greeley, and this was what O'Brien desired to prevent. The Committee numbers about 210 members, and although only that number of persons were in the room, not more than one-half of them were entitled by membership to take part in the proceedings. I felt assured that the integrity of my intentions should have been questioned, but the subsequent action of the Committee showed that I was indorsed. A large majority of the members are representative men, and work only for the general good."

It was very evident that Mr. Wickham thought that the Committee had been humiliated, although he did not so express himself, and it was also apparent that he regretted Greeley. He acknowledged defeat, and took that defeat gracefully.

LOCAL POLITICS.

The Republican National Committee.

Affairs at the Head-quarters of the Republican National Committee, Fifth-avenue Hotel, were quiet during yesterday. In the evening the rooms became thronged with callers seeking for news from North Carolina. Secretary W. E. Chandler was interviewed by several representatives of the Press as to his views of the situation. He said in answer to the questions propounded, that he felt but little anxiety about the result of the election. He had heard nothing from North Carolina unfavorable to Republican prospects, except the reports of wholesale challenging, &c. He expected that the first news received would have a Democratic complexion. He would be greatly deceived in his calculations if the State went for the Greeley party. If it did go that way, we would have the fiercest political contest in November which has been waged for many years. There was no doubt in his mind, however, that Grant would be elected even if North Carolina was carried by the Democrats and Liberal Republicans. The Republican Party, said Mr. Chandler, has great latent strength, and only becomes fully aroused when it believes it necessary. In regard to the letter of Gen. Banks, he said that he felt sorry to hear that Banks had declared for Greeley; sorry for Banks, for he thus ruined his political prospects. His defection was of little importance as the Republican Party, in politics at least, was a Republican party. Speaking of the alleged letter, he said that the Senator could say nothing more to hurt Grant than he had already said in his speech. He had said all the bitter things to damage the cause of Grant that he could say on that score. A gentleman writing from Illinois to those head-quarters says:

"Blues from Brown's fence during last business men are taking the alarm in every direction. Brave and gallant Dick Oglesby will be ahead of his ticket. Lots county (Ill.) Clerk is more German than any other. Cook County, Illinois, will Republican by Democratic-Republican candidate for Governor. We think we will pick him here by from 10,000 to 15,000."

Lieut. M. J. Stearns, of Waterloo, Iowa, writes to the Veteran's National Committee as follows:

"In our township we have but six soldiers of the late war, and every one are out-and-out Grant men. We have twenty-one voters in our township, twenty Republicans and one Democrat—and every one are for Grant."

Among the visitors yesterday were Gen. J. T. Averill, the famous Mississippi rudder; Hon. Seaton Grinnell, of Massachusetts; Gen. A. E. Burnside, R. E. Abell, Andrew Johnson, Virginia and Hon. Frank A. Sawyer, South Carolina; Judge Potter, New-York; Hon. William Windom, Minnesota; Col. T. F. Smead, Alabama; Hon. A. A. Brust, New-York; Col. Geo. F. Yarrington, Alabama, Postmaster Jones and Utilities Commissioner Ketcham.

The rooms and the hall leading to them were crowded at night. Several Greeley men called in, and being received politely, took advantage of the courtesy offered them by abusing the nominees of the Republican Party. One of these individuals, in an effort to prove that friends of Grant in the South were intimidated, was addressed by a gentleman who has just returned from that part of the country. Before he got through he was forced to acknowledge that there was no Grant man in the South whose character was so assailable as that of Gov. Warmoth, the Greeley leader of Louisiana. He left the head-quarters somewhat crestfallen at having the tables turned upon him.

Two drunken Greeleyites afterward stumbled into the rooms, and one of them began a long tirade in favor of Greeley. He was informed that the head-quarters for him to visit were Ethan Allen's, where he would undoubtedly find a congenial atmosphere. He persisted, however, and the intruder was taken out good humoredly by those present. The incorrigible, however, presuming on the forbearance shown to him used language considered insulting by the gentlemen present, who were chatting quietly and did not wish to be disturbed by a tirade upon Gen. Scarse. Informed the intruder that this was not the place, the head-quarters of the Republican National Committee, who were there to attend to party business, and they did not wish to be interrupted by boors of the opposition. Finding that there was a disposition to eject them, they took the hint and departed.

The Democratic Head-Quarters.

The Democratic National Committee's Head-quarters, Spingler House, were, like the other head-quarters, filled with politicians in the evening. They appeared to feel confident of the election in North Carolina going in their favor. A large number of Southerners were present, and they appeared to be the most interested in the result. Mr. Augustus Schell, Chairman, and A. D. Banks, Secretary, were present, and the names of the Democrats who called at the rooms included Ex-Gov. Paul Hebert, Louisiana; Gen. Wirt Adams, Mississippi; Gen. Walker, Alabama; Confederate Gen. Fagin, Arkansas; Gen. Martin T. McMahon, John W. Chandler, Gideon J. Tucker, Hon. John Kelley and Judge Matthews, Orange, N. J. One of these present said that the Democratic Party would take care that the credit of a victory in North Carolina should be given to the Democrats and not to Greeley.

Watching for News from North Carolina.

Much excitement prevailed in political circles last evening over the probable result of the North Carolina election. The various Committee head-quarters were thronged with callers in the evening in search of news, and in the hotels and large saloons there was considerable betting on the result. The few telegrams that were received and announced to public places here added nothing new, and many anxious inquiries went to bed, without having their anxiety satisfied after waiting for certain tidings until midnight.

Local Notes.

Our Hungarian citizens will hold a meeting at No. 154 Grand-street, on Saturday evening, to form a "Hungarian Grant and Wilson Club."

Last evening the citizens of Edgewater and Fairview, Bergen County, N. J., held a mass-meeting, and established a Grant and Wilson Campaign Club for the towns of Middletown and Southville.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Eighteenth Ward Grant and Wilson Campaign Club was held at the New-York Assembly Rooms, corner of Twenty-second-street and First-avenue, last evening. The meeting was addressed by several well-known speakers of the campaign, and fifty new members signed the roll.

A newly-organized Grant and Wilson Club, comprising of the Twenty-first and Twenty-first Ward, said its first meeting at No. 1,278 Third-avenue last evening, Mr. James Brock presiding. Committees were appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws, and to procure suitable head-quarters, &c. The Club is exclusively Democratic, and has gained many recruits since its organization.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Fleece on the New-Haven Road.

To the Editor of the New-York Tribune:

REAL ESTATE TRANSACTIONS.

The market for real estate still continues in a quiescent condition, but there are some signs of it becoming more animated as we near the next day. At the Exchange yesterday, Thursday, Aug. 1, the following business was transacted: Muller, Wilkins & Co. sold, by order of the Court of Common Pleas, Wylie Hodges, Esq., referee, a house and lot 25 by 74 block, situate on the south side of West Nineteenth-street, and known as No. 1, to E. P. Wheeler, esq. of the defendants, for $28,000. Also, adjourned the sale of the tenement-house and lot situate on the north side of East Eleventh-street, 125 feet west of Eighth-avenue, to Friday, Aug. 9, by order of W. H. Hart, Esq., referee.

James M. Miller also sold by order of the Supreme Court, under the direction of E. P. Hope, Esq., referee, the five-story brown-stone French flat and lot, 25 by 102.2, situate on the north side of Seventy-ninth-street, 225 feet east of Second-avenue, to Julius Porrcaka, for the sum of $7,000 over and above mortgage of $13,000, with interest from Oct. 4, 1871—total, $20,700. The following real estate will be offered at the Exchange, today, Friday, Aug. 2:

By Joseph McGuire, by order of the Supreme Court, Jas. H. Coleman, Esq., referee, the house and lot on north side of Thirty-fourth-street, 61.8 feet east of Tenth-avenue, 20.10 by 74.4.

James Oster Sons will also offer at the Commercial Exchange, Brooklyn, the promisee known as Nos. 24, 26 and 28 Front-street, in the City of Brooklyn.

A correspondent sends us the following communication from Elizabeth, N. J.:

The demand for houses in Elizabeth begins to show signs of stir. Mr. S. J. Ahern reports having several applications for moderate-sized and priced houses, with all the conveniences, and he has a few of that kind, desirably located, to meet the want. There are not as many houses as usual going up in Elizabeth this year, so that there is a great probability that next Spring will see all the houses in that thriving suburb taken up.

Mosquitoes have troubled the people of Elizabeth about ten days, having been worse than they have been for years. Now, however, the Jersey pest is gone. Mr. A. W. Dimock is still busy on his big brown-stone house, and it is supposed he will be able to move into it about the 15th inst. The Singer factory at Elizabethport, buildings of a substantial kind are going up to meet the requirements of the Company. It is thought that they will be before New-Year's have covered an area of eight acres with their buildings, and they will add to the population of the City at least 7,000. The finances of Elizabeth are in better trim, and taxes are reduced this year. Both roads are doing their best to accommodate the people with express and fast trains, and the time is reduced to thirty-one minutes between Elizabeth and New-York. Many important changes are going on in the business street; the Van Campen Company are erecting a fine iron-front building; Mr. Harvey Corey is also erecting a store, corner Broad and East Jersey streets, and several "rookeries" are coming down to make way for modern buildings. Mme. Fjinx, well known in New-York hotel circles, has purchased a fine house on Monroe-avenue; Mr. Frauenheim of the Singer Company, has put in order a splendid place opposite Jefferson Park; Mr. Joseph H. Gray is building a fine and substantial house on Monroe-avenue and Macy-street; but beyond the houses built by individuals for themselves, the building in Elizabeth is slack. Hamilton Fish, Secretary of State, owned some lots on Elizabeth-avenue, near Spring-street, and has erected one-story stores, just such one-story sheds as one would see in a mining town, or at the temporary terminus of a railroad in California. Mr. Clark, Jr., has one tenement of the one-story kind of work in Scipabets. Mr. John Clay, jr., owned more than one of Fish's putting three eighty brown-stones on Elizabeth-avenue.

Altogether Elizabeth holds her own in the matter of names and desirableness, and as a suburb of New-York, being within thirty-one minutes of it, of course nothing can compete with it. Mr. Ahern has sold a house to Mr. Dimock, in South Broad, is finishing up a dozen or more of his fine, large and showy houses.

THE AMERICAN BRIDGE COMPANY,

OF CHICAGO, ILL.

L. B. BOOMER, of Chicago, President.

(ORGANIZED AUG. 1, 1870.)

AUTHORIZED CAPITAL STOCK, $1,000,000

The whole amount of the authorized Capital Stock of this Company not having been issued, the balance thereof will be issued to subscribers of par, payments for same to be made in four installments of 25 per cent. each, viz.:

25 PER CENT. JULY 15, 1872.
25 PER CENT. AUG. 1, 1872.
25 PER CENT. SEPT. 1, 1872.
25 PER CENT. OCT. 1, 1872.

The subscription Books are open at the office of the undersigned until the closing of the books on the 1st inst., or until fully subscribed. All past due installments must be paid with interest at time of subscription.

The total amount of stock issued to date is $414,700, upon which basis the Company shows a present surplus of $136,269 97, and is now doing a flourishing business. One thousand men are constantly employed in their extensive works, and they have bridges on hand $1,250,000 of work for which railroads in the United States, among which may be mentioned the

CHICAGO, R. I. & PACIFIC,
CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN,
MICHIGAN CENTRAL,
MISSOURI PACIFIC,
ATLANTIC & PACIFIC, &c.

and the Company is now offered work to the amount of over $6,000,000, including some of the largest bridges ever built in this country, to escape which, Canada and Mexico have now offered us work. The rapidly increasing business necessitates a larger working capital, as immense amounts of material have to be kept constantly on hand, and the Company are frequently obliged to advance, in cash, materials for railroads, railroad and other bonds, which are perfectly good securities, but not always immediately available.

A point of incidental but great importance to those seeking security is the fact that the Company own thirty acres of land in Chicago, which leading real estate dealers say will be worth, in six years, at least $1,000,000, an amount equal to the whole proposed capital.

The career of the American Bridge Company, though brief, has already fully demonstrated the profitableness of railroad working capital. The Company has constructed since its organization, and up to the 31st of December, 1871, a total of 22,127 feet of bridges, 18 turning tables, and 16 iron roofs, and pneumatic and screw piles subcontracted for $3,400,000, and have facilities for the construction of pneumatic piles unsurpassed by any Company in the country, and a capacity for the construction of at least 120 feet of bridges for every working day in the year.

The Iron Railroad and Highway Bridge at Leavenworth, of three spans of 50 feet each, and the Union Pacific Bridge across the Missouri River, of eleven spans of 250 feet each, were constructed by this Company.

The net profit arising from this business, as shown by the books of the Company up to the 31st of March, 1872, amounted to $373,195 04, or at the rate of $924,089 28 per annum, being over 90 per cent. upon the capital stock then outstanding. With the proposed new structures, machinery, &c., the Company will have nearly double the capacity, and the proceeds of the increased issue of stock will enable them to buy material for cash, thereby making a saving of from $50,000 to $75,000 per year.

The net earnings, as intimated, on above basis, make dividends of from 90 to 95 per cent. per annum on the full amount of capital, $1,000,000, with a fair prospect of considerable increase.

The undersigned are prepared to give to those inquiring the fullest details and information regarding the reliability of the Company's statements, and the unquestioned integrity and ability of its officers.

OUR SEVENTH PICNIC.

How the Women and Children Enjoyed the "Stokes Excursion."

A Cool and Delightful Day of Pleasure.

Noble Action of the New-York Stock Exchange.

They Dispose of Their Own Tickets in Favor of the Fund.

Gratifying Indorsement of the Times Movement.

Yesterday the seventh of our excursions for children occurred, being another gratifying success. The picnic was intended for the especial benefit of mothers and their young children, agreeably to the request of Mr. James Stokes, one of the first contributors. There were nearly 700 persons on the excursion, and the number would have been much larger had not the weather seemed so threatening in the morning. As it was, the trip to Oriental Grove proved a most enjoyable one, and those who did go were full of gratitude for the opportunity given them to breathe the pure air on the Sound.

The most noteworthy event of the day was, however, found in the action of the New-York Stock Exchange, by which another handsome contribution was made to the fund. The manager of the excursions had forwarded to Edward King, Esq., President of the Stock Exchange, a package of ten tickets for to-morrow's excursion, which is given in their name. With characteristic liberality the members decided to put up the tickets at auction and devote the proceeds to the fund. The result was that the ten pieces of pasteboard were sold for $654 50, a check for which sum has been received by the manager, with the following letter:

NEW-YORK STOCK EXCHANGE, }
NEW-YORK, Aug. 1, 1872. }

DEAR: I am obliged by your favor of yesterday, informing me that the "New-York Stock Exchange Picnic" will take place on Saturday next, and inclosing ten tickets for the use of the members of the Exchange, to enable a delegation to accompany the excursion should they so desire.

I send your letter to the Exchange this morning, when it was unanimously resolved that the ten tickets should be sold at auction and the proceeds added to your fund.

I have accordingly the pleasure of handing you herewith a check for $654 50, proceeds of sale of the ten tickets, which please add to your other contributions.

Wishing you all success in your very charitable enterprise, and trusting that the 1,000 poor children you propose taking on Saturday may have a happy day, I am very truly yours,

EDWARD KING, President.

This and other large contributions received yesterday raises the fund to over $18,000, so that our resources are much increased. It is gratifying to find that our movement for the benefit of sick and destitute children is so warmly commended as is shown by the numerous letters received from contributors. The following is a specimen of many which the crowded condition of our columns prevents our publishing:

"Keep up the movement. Plenty of people, like me, will yet come along with big and little sums; it touches hearts as well as consciences, and all good men will pay you honor for what you have done and are doing."

We have received a barrel of bread from "A Friend," which was sent to Mr. O'Connor for distribution among the poor in the down-town district. We have also to acknowledge an offer from Mr. Henry A. Elliott, of No. 210 Fulton-street, to print the tickets for future excursions. "Sympathy" sends us a large package of tea for the widow woman in Thompson-street mentioned in our relief reports yesterday. The Washington Ice Company gave us 2,000 pounds of ice for the excursion yesterday, thereby lessening expenses.

Philip H. Reid, Esq., of the East New-York, Canarsie and Rockaway Railroad and Steam-boat Company offers a free trip for one of the TIMES Excursions for Poor Children, to Canarsie, over his railroad and steam-boat route. The kind offer is accepted, and we shall endeavor to profit thereby at an early date.

The Seventh Excursion.

All the former excursions of the TIMES Children's Pic-nic Fund have been marked by one feature, that of being for children almost, but the one of yesterday had, the additional feature of being for the mothers with infants (especially those who had been sick) as well as for romping boys and girls. The invitation tickets having been issued announcing that mothers with children would be taken on the TIMES Excursion boat, the hour of 9 o'clock in the morning had no sooner arrived, before eleven mothers, with infants in their arms and little "toddlers" hanging on to their skirts, were to be seen making their way to the pier at the foot of East Eighth-street, where the large Hoboken was awaiting their arrival. The lowering aspect of the morning following the rain of Wednesday, had intimidated many of the parents, who doubtless thought it would turn out another wet day; but those who braved the weather found, long before they reached Oriental Grove, (their destination,) that a more enjoyable day could not have been desired. As it was, about two persons, mostly parents with infant children, were embarked at East Eighth-street, by the time the tug Robert Robertson was ready to start. There was also a sprinkling of the rough boys who were found by the TIMES representatives around the neighborhood of Lewis-street, Avenue D, and near the wharf, longing to go on the picnic, but unaware of the course to be adopted in order to secure a ticket. Some of the boys asked the distributor of the tickets, "How much to get?" and when told that it was free, and everything on board free, they eagerly grasped the offered piece of red pasteboard and dashed at full speed down Eighth-street, evidently afraid that the barge would be gone, or the whole thing turn out a dream, unless they ran at their fastest gait. They, however, did not appear to realize the full extent of their pleasure until the barge was fairly on the way up the river.

The band from Governor's Island had been on board early half an hour before the manager thought it desirable to start, in the hope that those mothers who had previously hesitated would change their minds and come at the last moment. The sad the sick with some who could be seen hurrying down to the pier fully five minutes after the barge had started. The fact was much regretted, but, after waiting an hour, it was simply impossible to return for those who had loitered so long, as it was known others were waiting at the East Thirty-seventh-street pier for the arrival of the barge.

It was a very pleasing sight to see so many little infants, who had passed the greater part, if not all, of their lives in the basements of tenement houses, or amid the close atmosphere of tenement rooms, breathing the pure air of heaven as the barge proceeded up the river. Among these were many who, less than three weeks ago, the writer had seen withering under the effects of infantile diseases or the terrible Summer complaint. By the aid of skillful physicians the little ones had been restored partially to health, and the picnic was now helping the medicine in its work, making the eyes look brighter, and causing the little ones to "chuckle and crow" with the exuberance of animal spirits. After a while the change of atmosphere produced the natural result upon very young children, and the majority were sound asleep long before the barge reached Oriental Grove. Even the brazen notes of the horns, the rattling sounds of the drums, and the romping noise of larger children's boots, had no effect on the little sleepers—they slept on through the din, and when they arrived at the grove appeared to be greatly refreshed.

At Thirty-seventh-street pier a large number of persons had assembled, and were anxiously waiting as the barge arrived. The weather had brightened joyously by that time, so that more persons had gathered together at this point than at Eighth-street. Some little delay was experienced in consequence of the difficulty that existed in getting the barge near the landing-place, and during this time found necessary to let those who had tickets pass over a schooner laden with bricks in order to get them on board. Here the rough boys had the advantage over trained scholars, and much trouble was experienced in keeping them from falling into the water, in their anxiety to get on board, for they climbed over the bulwarks, instead of passing by the gang plank. Some few succeeded thus in getting on board, but became greatly annoyed when they found that by thus acting they had missed their "lemonade tickets." The only reason why they had chosen their own way to get on board was, apparently, the fear of the barge being away from them; for after they had received admission tickets, which they readily gave up when they found that in return they could get the lacking one for lemonade.

The protégés of the Phelps Mission came on board at this point, with them a number of teachers, and several more mothers with children, making the party nearly seven hundred strong. After waiting a reasonable time, the signal for starting was given, and the band again playing a lively tune, the barge once more moved on its way. The children now began to engage in their games, but for a while it was confined to the girls, as the boys had their interest concentrated on the burning kerosene-laden ships which had been towed from Hunter's Point into the centre of the stream off Blackwell's Island. After this had been passed, some of the boys proposed a game to be Sam Yerts and others on the island, after which they began to enter with more spirit into the amusements. It was, however, observable that some of the boys found greater pleasure in looking over the rail into the water, as if anxious to be wading amid its depths.

The girls, however, had begun their favorite game of Copenhagen and Charlie over the Water. But as they were playing the game by themselves, it seemed soon to get tame; for one girl remarked, "there is no fun in Copenhagen without we have boys." At last a few boys were induced to join in the game, and when one bashful boy refused to kiss the girl who had chosen him it to the centre of the rope circle, the little miss became quite angry. But, like all such petty disappointments, the effect soon passed away, and all went on gaily again.

The band performed a variety of tunes, and to each the girls managed to dance. It mattered little whether the piece performed was a measure or a quick step, it was always made of it. The mothers would also put their one-year-old children on the floor of the upper deck (where the band had been stationed) and, supporting the weight of their bodies in a way only to be accomplished by a mother, would make the little feet keep time to the music. Some of the steps performed by these very young dancers were somewhat ridiculous, but it pleased mamma, and evidently delighted the baby—if not, it caused some enjoyment to baby's little sister and brother.

Every steamer, tug, schooner or other vessel that was passed by the barge received and returned a salute of cheers, waving handkerchiefs, &c. The whistles of the tugs shrieked their approval of the TIMES excursions, and every mark of approbation was manifested by the passengers of the ferry-boats and steamers.

"Fall in for lemonade!" Then there was a rush. "Keep in line." It was no use. The steward's whistle had lost its terrors for the day, but such was the anxiety to get the good things in store that neither word nor whistle seemed to have the least effect. Milk had been provided for the mothers and young children, and they were supplied with a cup of first-class milk and a sandwich, and an extra cup for baby; after which the boys and girls were regaled with the same kind of food. The milk was so good that the boys, like Oliver Twist, tried every means to get more. "I've lost my ticket," "I haven't had none," and similar excuses were made, and perhaps a few thus obtained a double dose.

Shortly after the children and parents had been thus refreshed, the Fort Lee, loaded with an excursion party, passed toward the Sound, and about ten minutes after she went up for the TIMES excursion, which shouts were answered by the boys on the barge, the girls waving their hats and handkerchiefs. On the return trip, the same vessel passed the barge and cheered it in a similar manner.

The sandiron having been gathered again on the upper deck, the teachers of the Phelps Mission hoisted a number of banners on which were printed with stencil plates by Mr. John Boyd, the "Beloved Blue Sky," and other children's hymns. At the first bright lace, the children of the Mission gathered about the banners and sang the words to familiar tunes, other little fellows joining in with them. By the time the hymns were concluded the musicians had finished their lunch, and when the music was resumed all were ready to dance again.

On the arrival at Oriental Grove the party was ranged in line and marched single file before the sandwich table, when every person, large and small, was presented with three sandwiches with which they marched off into the grove.

After finishing their sandwiches, the majority of the boys retired in the water, for, poor boys they could swim without fear of the police. The girls, however, rambled about among the trees, an either engaged in the various games known to them, or else sought the shadiest spot to enjoy themselves. After lunch they had a bath in the sea, and spented about to their hearts content. The boys indulged in a foot-race for a tin pail full of ball. All returned home safe, and well pleased with the first excursion of the "Fresh Air Fund."

The ladies and gentlemen who so kindly volunteered to accompany the excursion and assist at the ground with blue badges, and performed their duties admirably.

Among the gentlemen were Mr. Kelsey, of the Fresh Air Fund committee, Mr. Lawrence, the manager of the picnics, R. D. Dourlacs, Thomas Hudson, Wm. Kelly, Rev. J. G. Bass, John Brinsley, Frank Peterson, Joan Hore, Mr. Clinton, W. J. Kellett, James Merton, E. D. Gilbert, G. F. Clark and Dr. George S. Little, who offered his medical services for the day.

The Steamer's Funny Freak.

The burning vessels at Hunter's Point continue to attract large crowds of people to witness the spectacle. The ship Eplis is burned to the water's edge, and the bark Edward, though gutted by the fire, still floats and sends up a volume of flame and smoke like a burning volcano.

The police steamer Seneca visited the scene yesterday, and attempted to dislodge the wreck by throwing two streams of water from her steam fire apparatus, but it seemed only to aggravate the flame, and the attempt was abandoned. The burning vessels drifted from the pilings where the fire originated on Tuesday, and strained at Rawlinson's where the work of destruction is slowly being completed. The fire at the oil yards is entirely extinguished.

THE TURF.

Trotting at Mollie Hall's Half-mile Track—A Good Day's Sport.

Mr. Hall's half-mile track, on the Coney Island road, is growing in popularity every day, as a natural consequence of liberal management. Yesterday there was excellent sport provided for the turfmen, no less than four contests being on the programme. The attendance was numerous, and all present seemed to enjoy themselves. The rain of Wednesday packed the track well, and it was in excellent condition.

THE FIRST TROT.

The first trot was for a purse of $100 for horses that had never beaten 2:50, best three in five, in harness, and the following four were entered, viz: H. Pellet's blk. m. In the betting, Mace was the favorite, and remained so until Lady Wheeler had won two heats. The race was closely contested, but Lady Wheeler won.

THE CONTRACT COMMISSION.

Injunction Restraining the Board from Acting on J. L. Brown's Contract—Strong Evidence of Fraud in Performing Contracts.

There was a full meeting of the Board yesterday, Commissioners Sutherland, Van Vorst, and Jaques being present. There were seventy-five cases on the calendar, only a few of which, however, were inquired into. During the proceedings an injunction was served upon the Board by James Deering, signed by Justice Leonard, restraining the Board from taking any action in the contract of one John L. Brown to pave Tenth-avenue, and restraining the Controller from paying Brown any money thereon.

The first matter taken up was the contract of John Devlin for regulating and grading Seventy-ninth-street from Ninth to Tenth-avenue. E. A. Fuerios, a civil engineer, who made the report to the Commissioners, was recalled and testified to the unsatisfactory manner in which the work had been done.

The examination into the contract for the Hamer prepared-wood pavement was continued. Prof. Chandler stated that he had analyzed the wood to chemical test, and had found that no special hardening process had been employed in its preparation. He had examined several blocks of the pavement and had found no traces of size in them.

The case of John L. Brown was called, and Mr. Vanderpool stated that an injunction had been put upon the action of the Commissioners in hearing any testimony relative to this contract. After some discussion the case was adjourned until today.

The case of Smith & Noonan, J. D. Moore, assignee, One Hundred and Thirteenth-street sewer, was brought up. The case was adjourned and signed by the Commissioners, but Mr. West asked to have the matter reopened, stating that several property-owners wished to give their testimony relative to the matter, as it was on the face of it such a transparent fraud that it demanded a more searching investigation.

Mr. Strahan said that as far as he was concerned, he wished to have the matter reopened, as several property-owners were present who never heard of any investigation into it, and who wished to testify in the matter.

The matter was finally laid over.

The case of J. D. Moore, for regulating, grading, curb, gutter and flagging One Hundred and Thirteenth-street, Third-avenue to Harlem River, was called.

John Dunn, examined, testified that he heard the pavement in front of Mr. O'Brien's had to be pulled up; he did not see the pavement laid.

John Cantes testified that he had examined the work and the materials of the contract; he went to two or three of the property-owners with two of the flag-stones (which he produced in Court); they were fair specimens of the general work, which was poor; this was a very poor quality of North River stone, and much below the proper size of the stone called for by the contract; instead of gritty soil or ashes the clay from the road was thrown under the flagging, against the specified condition of the contract.

Contract No. 1 was then taken up. Thos. Gyves, Thos. Feeley, assignee, Fifth-avenue, regulating, grading, &c., from One Hundred and Thirteenth to One Hundredth and Thirty-eighth-street.

Mr. Strahan, counsel for the Contractor, read a paper showing that Gyves' bid in the work was the lowest bid out of nine bids, and a monstrous imposition on tax-payers.

E. A. Fuerios, who examined the work, testified: The estimate of the filling in is certainly excessive; I recollect the ground; there was no earth to be excavated to the amount of 18,000 feet; the earth dug there was 300 yards to excavate, and that could not reach it in 400 yards. Without could be rented on any experiment in the discrepancy; a common observation would tell vines say one that more filling was required than is contracted for in the estimate; it came to over 22,000 yards; the ground is marshy, and no doubt the filling would be sunk, which might account for the difference.

Thomas Feeley, the assignee, explained how the payment had been done on certain parts of the work.

George B. Mullesby was a City surveyor. The survey by witness was made four years before the contract was given; in the meantime a great deal of the filling was taken away, and though I surveyed 14,003 yards when the contract began, only 924 yards remained. This accounts for the discrepancy. The witness was examined very lengthily, but further new was adduced, and the Board adjourned until today at 2½ o'clock.

It is the opinion of the Commissioners that they will be unable to get through their work by Monday, which is the limit set by the law on their deliberations.

Broderick then sold the draft to Lincoln Cinte, a broker at No. 20 Broadway, who cashed it, and in return received the money from Wells, Fargo & Co.
